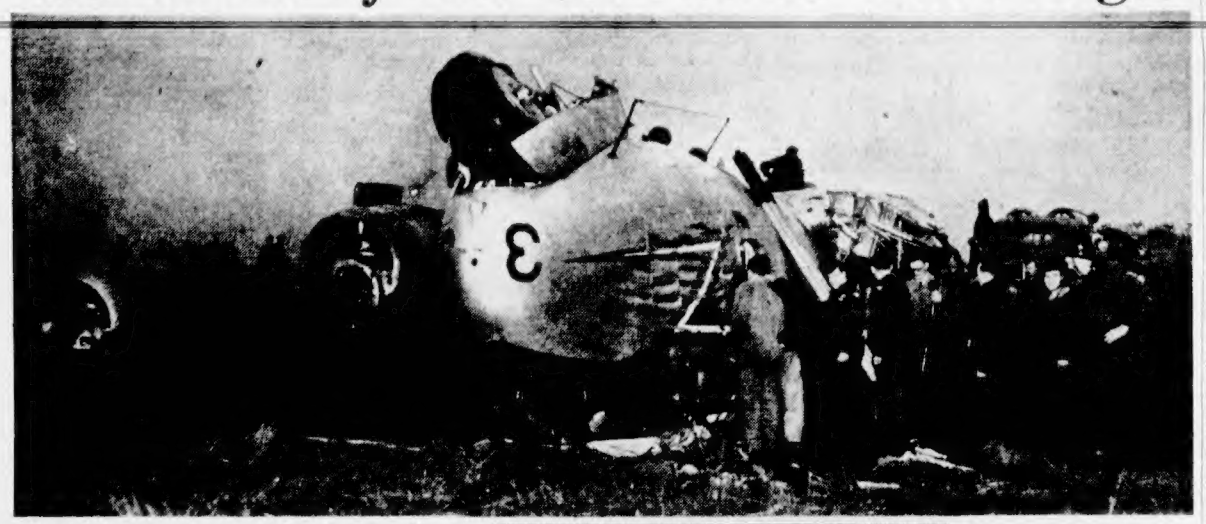
Survival of All on Plane Amazing



Amazed that anyone escaped alive, air force officers and ground crew examine wreckage of plane that flipped over on back at Vancouver airport. All 51 persons aboard are alive and only one suffered severe injuries.

Escapes in Crash Considered Miracle

VANCOUVER (CP)—A disabled RCAF North Star transport plane ripped off a wing and cartwheeled into tangled wreckage while landing at Vancouver International Airport yesterday, but all 51 persons aboard escaped serious injury.

Air force officials said it was a "miracle" no one was killed. Cause of the crash was not known.

The 43 passengers and eight crew members scrambled through broken windows and a gaping hole in the fuselage. Eight women and two small children were among the survivors.

The four-engined plane from 426 Transport Squadron at Dorval, Que., was on a regular flight from Vancouver to Montreal via Edmonton when it was forced to turn back after it ran into icing conditions and one engine failed.

Most of the passengers were returning to Eastern Canada after spending Christmas on the Coast.

The pilot, Flt. Lieut. John Evans of New Westminster, B.C., and Dorval, was pulled out of a hole in the nose by one of the airport crash teams. He suffered a cut head.

Most seriously injured was Airwoman Pat McHugh of Hamilton, Ont. She suffered abrasions and shock but was reported in good condition.

The plane came to rest upside down at the edge of a 10-foot ditch partly filled with water. The passengers and crew were strapped to their seats by safety belts and were hanging upside down when the fuselage slid to a stop in a pool of gasoline.

Flames which shot out from a sheared-off engine were doused by firemen before they could spread.

It was the second crash of an RCAF North Star in the last three days. A North Star en route from Japan to McChord Field, Wash., crashed Sunday while landing at Shemya in the Aleutians. The eight persons aboard were unhurt.

In yesterday's crash, the fear of fire sent the passengers scurrying from the wreckage.

"The passengers seemed to know the danger," a rescuer said. "Even the ones who were badly shaken up were scrambling away from the smouldering wreck that could have gone off any minute like a truck load of TNT."

It was the first major crash in the 24 years the $1,000,000 airport has been in operation.

Wing Cmdr. G. J. J. Edwards of 435 transport squadron in Edmonton is en route here to take charge of the official investigation.

Wing Cmdr. Donald Macdonald, commander of the RCAF Sea Island station, said preliminary investigation indicated the plane's undercarriage buckled as the wheels hit the runway, causing it to flip.

Victorians, Flying Officer and Mrs. Frank Player, were among passengers on crippled RCAF North Star which crashed at Vancouver airport yesterday.

Victoria Couple Unhurt in Crash

Among those who escaped death when the RCAF North Star transport crashed at Vancouver airport yesterday was a young Victoria couple.

Flying Officer Frank Player and his bride of December 5, the former Miss Sylvia Welsh, were returning to North Bay, Ontario, where FO Player is stationed.

During his leave in Victoria FO Player stayed with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Player, 2604 Blackwood.

Frank attended St. Louis College and was in the B.C. Hospital Insurance Commission before he joined the air force two years ago.

Philip Attends Funeral

HAMILTON, N.Z. (Reuters)—Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh parted company today for the first time since their Royal tour began, when the Duke flew to attend services in Wellington for victims of New Zealand's disastrous Christmas Eve train wreck.

He and Prime Minister Sidney Holland left nearby Rukuhuia airport soon after dawn in a Royal New Zealand Air Force C-47. Services are being held in Wellington for the 136 persons now believed to have died in the Tangiwai rail disaster. The duke will return this afternoon.

QUEEN ALONE

Elizabeth will carry on the day's program alone, with a civic reception and a visit to New Zealand's famous Waitomo caves, where swarms of glow-worms brighten subterranean blackness.

She and her husband have been together constantly since their Commonwealth tour began at the start of this month.

A formal dinner and the cheers of thousands of celebrating New Zealand youngsters greeted the Royal couple on their arrival here Wednesday night.

GUEST AT DINNER

Resplendent in a blue satin evening dress with sparkling diamond circlet, bracelets, earrings and necklace, the Queen joined more than 80 guests at a dinner given by Mayor R. Braithwaite of Hamilton.

She and the Duke then visited the Bledisloe building, one of the country's largest structures, and waved from a balcony to 4,000 cheering participants in a youth festival.

Reds Making All-Out Bid For Victory

HANOI, Indo-China (AP)—The armies of Moscow-trained Ho Chi Minh—equipped and advised by Red China—are apparently determined to make 1954 a "year of decision" in the Indo-China war.

There are strong indications that Ho Chi Minh is going to risk everything in an all-out attempt to strike a crushing blow at the French Union forces or at least make the situation look so bad that he might gain a negotiated peace.

The French expect hard months of fighting ahead. Army sources said Ho Chi Minh is virtually forced to make his supreme bid for victory or a negotiated peace in the next few months because the balance of power is steadily being turned against him.

The rebels yesterday attacked French strong points in northern Laos and closed in on the fortress of Dien Bien Phu, farther north in neighboring Viet Nam.

Fire Fighters Make Gains

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Fire-fighting specialists began to get the upper hand Wednesday on a forest fire which at times has threatened the famed Mt. Wilson observatory near here.

Richard Johnson, a U.S. forest service fire prevention officer, said the blaze may be controled by Friday.

Neither the observatory nor the $4,000,000 worth of television equipment atop Mr. Wilson has been damaged.

Three Charged with Shotgun Robbery Of $450 from Shoal Bay Storekeeper

CAMPBELL RIVER — Two men and a juvenile have been arrested by Royal Canadian Mounted Police here in connection with a $450 robbery of a storekeeper at gun-point.

William Mould, Fred Stickland and a 17-year-old boy, all of Campbell River district, were arrested after an air and sea search by RCMP.

The $450 was recovered for Garnet Bergman, who lives in his store at Shoal Bay, 30 miles north of here.

Police said three men knocked at Bergman's door at 2 a.m. Wednesday seeking help to repair their boat. As the storekeeper opened the door the shotgun was aimed at him and the $450 stolen from the store.

The three men fled to a waiting speedboat and escaped.

Mr. Bergman was unable to notify police until 8.30 a.m. yesterday, when B.C. Airlines radio-telephone facilities opened at Campbell River spit. Airlines employees relayed the report to police.

A police officer flew immediately to Shoal Bay to investigate. The speedboat was not seen in later air patrols.

Police learned finally that the trio had gone to Heriot Bay, Quadra Island, and that Mould and the juvenile had taken a taxi five miles to Quathiaska Cove and boarded a ferry for Campbell River.

The two were arrested as they landed here. Stickland was arrested at Heriot Bay.

Police said they believe the shotgun and ammunition may be found today.

Mould and Stickland, both in their early 20s, are to appear in police court today. Date for the third person to appear in juvenile court is not known.

Too Much Pastry Poison, Greedy Youth Discovers

BY RAY BAINES

A young lad who likes to eat made a boast yesterday which was a little hard to swallow and ended up biting off more than he could chew.

"It isn't (urp) worth it," said 16-year-old John Kelly after putting away one pineapple pie, two large date squares, a jam tart and two doughnuts.

He had bet two friends that he could consume in one hour, the following: four pies, six doughnuts, eight date squares and 16 tarts.

It all started at noon yesterday when John, who apparently has a reputation for continuous hunger, went to lunch at Johnny's Coffee Shop and announced he was so hungry he could eat everything in the showcase.

His companions, Al Appelton and Fred Ball, said he couldn't and the wager was on.

John said he would come back at 3 p.m. and make good his claim. If he couldn't he would pay the bill. If he could, his friends would pick up the $5.10 tab.

A fair crowd gathered at the appointed hour to watch John try to wrap his 135 pounds around an estimated eight pounds of rich, luscious food. He waded in with enthusiam and confidence. It was a lead pipe cinch, he said.

About 15 minutes, half a pie and two doughnuts later, he began to slow down. Each swallow was an effort.

Paler and wiser at the half-way mark, John gave up. His friends' look of triumph changed to looks of sympathy as John sat back helplessly in the restaurant booth only one-quarter of the way to an impossible victory. A bill for $5 and a stomach-ache were his prizes.

Smiling weakly, brave but vanquished, he looked over the still remaining mountain of pastries and murmured something which sounded like "eyes bigger than my stomach."

Moral: Don't ever say, "I'm so hungry I could eat a horse."

There may be literal-minded friends around.

Eyes Bigger Than Stomach

More than just food for thought, thinks 16-year-old John Kelly as the enormity of his culinary boast begins to dawn. Only a quarter of the way through the four pies, six doughnuts, eight date squares and 16 tarts he bet friends he could eat in an hour, John begins to get, like Pogo's friend Albert, "a sickly green color all over hisself." He didn't make it.

Yule Supplies Rot On Victoria Dock

West Coast Settlements Suffer As Food, Mail Go Undelivered

Around Christmas time they used to call the old Princess Maquinna the Santa Claus ship.

But up on the West Coast they have another name for the Maquinna's successor, the Princess of Alberni, and it's quite unprintable.

Down on the CPR docks at Victoria this week are lying the goodies that were going to make Christmas cheer for the good people of Zeballos, Clo-oose, Chamiss Bay and Kyuquot.

Vegetables, fruits and other perishables are rotting.

They are lying at Victoria because the Princess of Alberni failed to complete the Christmas trip she started on December 22 from Victoria.

Aboard the Princess were 250 bags of Christmas mail in addition to the holiday-season freight. If the run had proceeded according to schedule everything would have been delivered in time for Christmas Day.

Instead, what happened?

The Princess struck a dead head somewhere in the Alberni Canal, damaged a propeller shaft and got no further than Tahsis, 15 miles short of Zeballos and farther from other more northerly points of call.

At Tahsis, the Princess put ashore its 40 bags of mail for Zeballos, Ceepeece, Chamiss Bay and Kyuquot. Then, still with her freight aboard, the Princess set off for home under tow.

Meanwhile, Christmas Day came and went for the people of Zeballos, Ceepeece, Chamiss Bay and Kyuquot with no Christmas supplies.

A small boat was eventually sent down from Zeballos to Tahsis to collect the mail (which arrived December 28, instead of 24).

But the stores were still left empty. Today Zeballos has no meat, no butter, no eggs, no vegetables. SOS messages have been received by Victoria suppliers.

The same state of affairs exists at Chamiss Bay and Kyuquot.

Indignant West Coasters want to know why the Princess of Alberni was not towed to complete its inner passage run when it got as far as Tahsis? And even if towing was not regarded as practicable why was the freight not unloaded at Tahsis instead of being brought back to Victoria?

With the Princess of Alberni lacking refrigerated space, the perishables were in a sad state when they returned to Victoria this week. Wednesday they were still to be seen lying on the CPR dock.

The Princess of Alberni is obviously not up to the task, they say.

Port Renfrew, nearest to Victoria of the Princess' ports of call, has been passed up entirely on the past two trips—unfavorable weather. Clo-oose has also been by-passed on the two December trips. Each time the freight for these ports has been brought back to Victoria.

Clo-oose has had neither mail nor supplies for more than three weeks.

Port Renfrew would have been in the same position had shippers not made arrangements with the logging company to have the goods sent in by company speeder over the Shawnigan Lake route.

The white Princess is becoming a white elephant for the CPR. Shippers estimate that their claims for damaged and undelivered freight have increased 1,000 per cent since the Maquinna was taken off the route.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canadian Pacific Steamships' coastal freighter Princess of Alberni will miss her regular scheduled trip Friday because she is laid up for repairs, the company announced Wednesday.

The Union-Waterhouse vessel Island King has been chartered to make the trip in her place.

Princess of Alberni struck a log in the Alberni Canal on Christmas Eve.

The ship was found to have a badly chewed propeller plus damage to the tail shaft and stern tube when examined on the ways at Victoria Wednesday.

Island King, a coastal freighter, will make the Alberni's regular run from Vancouver to Galiano, Mayne, Hope Bay, Saturna Island, South Pender Island, Victoria and northern points.

The CPS vessel is expected to make the next scheduled run January 12.

Jail or Sea, Choice For Unfortunate Pole

BY PETER BRUTON

Still confined after five months in a small cell atop the Immigration Department building in Vancouver is a 29-year-old former Polish national who has spent the past four years either at sea or in jail—the two places he hates most.

For his "crime" of escaping from behind the Iron Curtain, Richard Nowalinski has been imprisoned for more than a year in the jails of five of the free, western nations.

Before that he was imprisoned by both the Polish and Russian Communists.

A volunteer Victoria immigration worker, Mrs. William Rogers, 42 South Turner, late last month brought the matter of Mr. Nowalinski's plight to the attention of Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, Conservative MP for Esquimalt-Saanich.

Both worked incessantly in a vain attempt to get the man out of the cell for Christmas but Immigration authorities flatly turned down the request.

Mr. Nowalinski has to remain in the Immigration department cell until a ship arrives in which he can be deported. And no captain will accept the man because he has no passport.

It all started in 1949 when Mr. Nowalinski was jailed by Russian and Polish Communists.

Afterwards he escaped from Red-controled Poland and arrived in Sweden on a Swedish ship. There he was jailed for two weeks and was then signed on a Swedish ship. That was his home for the next seven months.

The ship eventually arrived in Egypt and there Mr. Nowalinski learned the next port was one in Russia. He jumped ship and was jailed by the Egyptians for three months. They signed him on a Belgian freighter.

This ship took him to Belgium where he once again deserted—the vessel was bound for Poland.

Island Flier, Student Killed

MOOSE JAW (CUP)—An experienced flier and his student died in the flames of their crashed plane in a farmer's field 20 miles south of here Wednesday.

FO Charles Bryers, Port Alberni, and LAC Francis Tozer, Newcastle, New Brunswick, died almost instantly when their Harvard plummeted to the ground.

Bryers, Second World War winner of the Distinguished Flying Cross, is survived by his wife and three children, all living here.

Tozer is survived by his wife, whom he married here last month.

District farmer A. E. Spicer said he saw the Harvard trainer flying low over his farm. The engine suddenly went dead, he said, and a few minutes later a cloud of smoke came from a mile and a half south of his farm.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

PURSUED by fallen leaves, driven to the brink of nervous collapse by M. V. Chesnut's too-energetic garden column, this reader sends me a cry from the heart.

The reader writes a pleasant and sprightly letter, addressing me as "Dear Conductor," a salutation based on the title of this column.

"I have a garden; most of the time it looks more like a jungle; it is surrounded by giant oaks on three sides, and more or less open on the street. You may have guessed one of my troubles, leaves. I have done little else since they began to fall this season but rake, rake, rake.

"I have not cleared them all away yet; the vintage of past years keeps coming to the surface. The neighbors' leaves blow up and down the street before making up their minds to settle on my front lawn, which they eventually do, as well as blowing in my front door.

"But my main trouble is Mr. Chesnut. He is breaking my heart. Ever since he started his gardening lectures in the paper, I have been in arrears; I have done all the things I ought not to have done, and I have done none of the things he has said I should have done, and there is no sense in me.

"Out of the thousands of things he has written that I should have done or should do, I can remember only one of them. It rather took my fancy; it was a new way of digging one's garden and I shall be coming to that pleasing pastime, if I live long enough, some time in March or April; but of course it should have been done last September or thereabouts.

If you have a round bed, you should dig, he says, in a spiral manner from the edge in, and if you have a square or rectangular bed, you must dig down the sides and up the centre, just like square dancing. I have both kinds of bed.

* * *

"My garden these days is a dreadful sight; a row of tomatoes that came into this world too late to do any good for themselves, hang on their vines like the corpses of highwaymen from their gibbets. They lear at me as I pass by with my load of leaves, their dreadful yellow jaundiced faces contorted with hate, and I seem to hear them say 'Burial, burial, give us decent burial.' I shall try to do this before the year is out.

"A row of scarlet runner beans, overtaken by old age, shake and rattle their grisly rotten fingers at me, shouting the same thing. They will get on the compost heap, if they are lucky, the same time as the tomatoes.

"My compost heap is assuming great proportions; I wearily climb the ladder daily with my load of clammy leaves, but I feel that this is the one thing I do that Mr. Chesnut approves of, so perhaps I shall get a good mark . . .

"By the way, where do you keep your train? All the best conductors I know have a train and wear a fancy hat with gold braid on it."

Ah, there you have touched a tender spot. I am condemned to be a conductor while all the time I dream of being an engineer. I visualize myself at the throttle of an eight-wheeler: Casey Mortimore, driving a train of thought through the night.

Don't be too quick to throw your Christmas cards away when the season is over. They can be used in a good cause, writes Peter H. Seale, University School.

The Anglican Brotherhood of St. Francis in England welcomes cards of a religious appeal, particularly those depicting Nativity scenes. They are remade, sold, and the money used for boys' work in the slums of England. Address:

Br. Christopher, SSF, St. Francis Home, Cerne Abbas, Dorchester, Dorset, England.

Postal rate: Nine cents the first pound, eight cents for every pound thereafter. Limit, six pounds, nine ounces. Mark "Printed matter" or "Used Christmas cards."

A rash of anonymous correspondents lately. How much do "Keep Your City Clean" signs mean, demands one of these. "Thirty yards from corner of Douglas and Yates, south—as much litter on sidewalk as in cans. Two filthy alleys on Yates Street . . . one on View south side between Douglas and Blanshard; others, I suppose."

"How about the sitters, both portable and built-in?" asks Florence M. Bingham, 544 Toronto Street. "By the latter I mean in-laws,or those like myself, no longer able to fly by night . . . At New Year's we are priced 'above rubies.'

"Tonight the wind howls wildly
Structures quiver
A child turns in its bed
Soft toys fall.
The child sleeps on,
Knowing a white-haired 'sitter',
Keeps vigil across the hall."

Warmest thanks and wishes to the kind people who sent me cards.

Advice Offered Drivers For Safe New Year's Eve

Here's some advice for New Year's Eve motorists, issued Wednesday by Motor Vehicles Superintendent George Lindsay:

1. If you're unfit to handle your car, get a sober friend to drive you home.

2. If no one is available to take over your car, hire a taxi.

3. Make that "one for the road" strong coffee—nothing stronger. Coffee helps overcome the fatigue induced by late party hours.

4. Don't take chances. Give all other cars a wide berth. Remember that even though you are sober, the other driver may not be.

Economic Changes Expected in Canada

MONTREAL (CP)—The easing of international tensions will probably bring about a readjustment in Canada's economy during 1954, W. J. Borrie, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, said yesterday.

In a year-end message, Dr. Borrie said the major task for Canadians in 1954 may be the consolidation of gains made during the post-war period "prior to a further upward climb from this plateau."

This period of readjustment would be similar to the one in 1950, following the outbreak of the Korean war. However, economic activity in 1954 should be at a reasonably high general level despite possible regional difficulties.

Animal Question Box

Dogs that Bark at Delivery Men Seldom Prove Vicious Animals

BY B. ROBERT MAGGS

Usually when people write to me or call on the phone to tell me that they are having difficulty with the mailman or milkman or garbage man, or other regular callers because the dog owned by the householder barks at said caller, I try to explain that some people are either scared stiff when a dog barks at them, or they don't like dogs. I also try to get them to co-operate by keeping their dog in the house during the time they expect the delivery of milk and mail.

In other words, if I do not know the dog personally—I take the attitude that unless there is real cause for complaint the mailman or whoever is complaining wouldn't do so. But it seems that some times people do complain before they have real cause to do so.

MAIL CUT OFF

Some people I know in the James Bay district were notified that they will not receive mail by carrier any more but must go to the post office to pick it up. The reason—they own a dog who barks at the mailman. I have known their dog since he was a pup six months old, in fact I was responsible for their getting him. I have seen him about once a month since then, know his entire history and record and if anyone can prove to me that he has ever bitten anyone or done anything but bark at people who come onto his property, I'll give them a nice box of cigars.

If the mailman on our street refused to deliver mail to everyone who owns a dog that barks at him, there would be very little for him to do. The dogs dash out—give him a good talking to—then sit back and wait for the next caller.

NEVER SWINGS BAG

Our mailman never swings his bag at them, or makes threatening gestures, he usually says "Hi Duffy" or "Skippy" or whatever the dog's name is, and pays no more attention to him.

What I would like to know is this; upon what grounds do the postal authorities base their reasoning in telling people that they will no longer deliver mail to the house? Does the man on the route turn in a report "Dog frightens me at 1234 A. Street," or does he have to show his scars where the dog has bitten him?

Understand, I have no use for owners who allow a vicious dog to be loose in any neighborhood to molest mailmen—the latter have to contend with enough hazards without adding biting dogs. And much as I like dogs, and have handled a few rough ones in my time, I too would refuse to make deliveries to the home of people who own a dog who bites and yet is left to run loose.

DON'T BE SILLY

But let's not be silly about it. Because a dog kicks up a fuss when a man comes up to the house is no reason why his owners should have to go to town to pick up their mail. Oh well. Happy New Year to everyone, especially mailmen.

Miss L.S. asks. Is catgut really made from the intestines of cats?

A. No, catgut is an age-old misnomer for surgical gut, and is made from sheeps' intestines.

Mr. V. McM. would like to know what I consider the most humane poison to use against rats.

A. Zinc phosphide is about the most humane poison that I know of for rodents. The poison under the trade name you mention causes internal hemorrhages, some of which must be very painful.

T.M. asks which animal used in sports is treated with the greatest kindness, as a rule, by the user?

BECOME PALS

A. My answer to that would be the polo pony. Once a polo player chooses a horse they are usually pals and partners for the rest of the horse's life. Polo ponies are the only horses selected primarily for their intelligence. Any that I have ever ridden seemed to enjoy the game as much or more than I did.

The December 26 issue of the Post has a most interesting article by Robert G. Ruark about one Carr Hartley, a huge white hunter who fears no living thing. His African abode is overrun by fierce beasts and he calls them all "darling"—even the big "cat" that mutilated him. And Tommy, a chimp that adores girls but has belted his master "clean out of the chair."

Hartley is a professional hunter turned tender, who traded his gun for a lasso. It doesn't sound like a comfortable existence but makes exciting reading, especially if you are interested in African wild life.

Views Conflicting On Digging Soil

BY M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

I have from time to time expressed some disagreement with the more extreme members of the organic school of gardening, and in particular with those who regard digging as unnecessary and destructive to soil texture.

But because I can't go along with them all the way in their theories doesn't mean that they are entirely wrong. The no-diggers have certainly produced some rather startling results, and some of their teachings are well worth a closer study.

One of these is that the soil must be permitted to grow a skin. This is an excellent way of expressing a most useful idea. It means that, in a state of nature, the land always tends to develop a thin top layer of soil of an entirely different texture to that which lies below.

USEFUL PURPOSE

This skin may be only an inch or two in thickness, but it performs a useful purpose. Being richer in humus than the lower soil, it is more spongy, and acts as a buffer or insulator. Water passes through it freely instead of running away off the surface, as it will do when the skin is lost. It provides a cool, moist cover for fine feeding roots, and it is the home of a teaming life of beneficial bacteria and other soil organisms.

The no-diggers say that by inverting the soil annually, we destroy this natural skin, and fail to replace it with anything as good. Personally, I think one of the main objects of digging is to increase the depth of the skin, which we can do if organic material is incorporated with the soil every time it is dug. Moreover, I believe that by mulching our growing plants, we are providing an artificial skin just as effective as the one found in nature, if not more so.

But even the most ardent diggers have to admit that digging is not always desirable in all places and at all times. You can't go mossing around the fruit garden with a spade, for instance, nor around the ornamental shrubs, and there are probably more raspberries and gooseberries injured by the spade or digging fork than by any other means.

Around such shallow-rooting subjects, digging is out, but we can see to it by repeated mulching that the soil has every chance to grow a healthy skin of humus-rich material.

TASKS LIGHTENED

And when this skin has been produced, we shall find our gardening tasks greatly lightened, for the soil will be much easier to hoe, regardless of the weather, and it will be far less affected by sudden changes in the weather.

SAN GABRIEL, Calif. (AP)—A medical rarity—birth of twins whose weight is exactly the same—was disclosed Tuesday when doctors at San Gabriel Valley Hospital said the two-day-old daughters of Mrs. Sally Gibbs, 19, both weighed three pounds 15 ounces at birth. Almost invariably, the doctors said, one twin outweighs the other.

Military Plane Lost in France

PARIS (AP) — A French military plane with 11 persons aboard was reported missing Wednesday on a flight from Algiers to Mont-de-Marsan in southwestern France. Police and military units began searches in the Pyrennees and search planes were dispatched over the route on which the craft disappeared Tuesday night.

Court Quashes Conviction In Theft of Citadel Safe

British Columbia Court of Appeal has quashed the conviction last August of Vernon Reid on charges of breaking and entering and theft, and receiving and retaining stolen goods.

Reasons for judgment have not been handed down by Chief Justice Gordon M. G. Sloan and Mr. Justice C. H. O'Halloran. Mr. Justice Sidney Smith dissented.

Main argument by appellant's counsel, J. Ronald Grant, was improper use of photographs by Victoria city police.

The Crown may file an appeal with the Supreme Court of Canada.

PROCEDURE IMPROPER

Mr. Grant argued it was improper for the police to have shown photographs of Reid to an identification witness just before Reid was placed in a police line-up.

Reid was convicted in County Court by Judge J. B. Clearihue and sentenced to three years in prison. The charges involved an incident in February when a safe was stolen from the Pandora Avenue citadel of the Salvation Army. The safe contained $100 cash and $200 in bearer bonds and was found abandoned on Millstream Road, Langford.

Mr. Grant also argued that witnesses gave no evidence concerning physical traits of the accused.

Campaign Raises $15,120

The Christmas seal campaign, sponsored for the past seven years by Soroptimist Club of Greater Victoria, has so far netted a total of $15,120.

"We think it's really wonderful; it's a marvelous response," said a campaign official last night.

Last year the campaign raised a total of $15,535 and officials are still hopeful this figure can be bettered. The campaign continues until the end of January.

West Reported at Odds On Guarantees to Russia

PARIS (AP)—Britain, France and the United States are reported divided over the manner and timing of gurantees to Russia against any possible unprovoked attack.

An authoritative source said Wednesday experts of the three Western powers have drafted a series of proposals for their governments broadly accepting the idea that some pledge should be offered to the Soviets to relieve their professed fear of aggression by the West, particularly through Germany.

This idea first was forwarded by Britain and accepted in principle, at the Bermuda conference of Prime Minister Churchill, President Eisenhower and Premier Laniel.

However, the informant said, these differences of approach have since emerged:

1. France believes the guarantee should be offered in a joint three-power declaration issued before the projected Big Four foreign ministers' conference in Berlin.

2. The U.S. view is that the offer of guarantees should be presented to the Russians during the Berlin talks on Germany's future, but that no mention should be made of Germany specifically.

3. Britain's position has not yet been clearly stated, but there have been indications that she would, perhaps, favor a multi-party pact with the Russians—either the Big Three or, maybe, all the North Atlantic Treaty powers on one side and Russia on the other—to provide non-aggression guarantees.

Escaped Convict Reported Seen

VANCOUVER (BUP)—Fears that the second man to escape from the B.C. penitentiary in 24 years had fled across the United States border were allayed Wednesday night when a city resident said he had seen Anders Berg in downtown Vancouver.

The 55-year-old inmate who slipped away from a work gang at the New Westminster institution Tuesday was the object of a re-intensified search after Leonard Edwards was accosted by a man answering his description.

"I was just going into the press club," the cash register salesman told police, "when he asked me if I could spare 15 cents. He was shabbily dressed, needed a shave, and walked oddly as though he had been drinking."

"He had no hat on and was about the age and height of Berg," Edwards said.

Edwards said he didn't recognize the man at first but later realized who it was when he saw Berg's picture in a newspaper.

It had been feared that the convict, who had served exactly one year of his two-year term, had made his way through roadblocks covering all exit from the area and escaped into Washington state.

Police scoured all streets and back alleys in the area where Berg was seen, but the man had disappeared.

Earlier in the day, a woman said she had seen a man answering Berg's description, but the suspect had vanished when police arrived at the scene.

John Caesar Dies at 102

VANCOUVER (CP) — John Caesar, 102 years old, the man credited with starting the first railway station garden in Canada died Tuesday.

Born in London, England, he came to Canada in 1867, settling in Toronto. He started his railway career with the Grand Trunk Railway and joined the CPR in 1882. For many years he was agent at Markdale, Ont.

Reds Free German Soldiers

HERLESHAUSEN (AP) — A total of 800 former soldiers in Hitler's army crossed the West German border Wednesday night, most of them free for the first time since Russian troops captured them in the Second World War.

Soviet military buses brought them here from Eisenach, East Germany.

Most of the men had lived nearly 10 years in a camp deep in the Urals. They looked lean but fit. Another 1,000 prisoners will be released by Communist authorities today.

The men had little to say. West Germans said perhaps they feared reprisals against those still in Russian hands.

In Berlin, the official Soviet news agency ADN said in all 1,935 prisoners were released Wednesday.

A total of 9,800 German PWs have been released since the announcement of Soviet amnesty for minor war criminals last August.

U.S. Reported Planning Aid For Egypt

WASHINGTON (AP) — Informed sources said Wednesday the United States has let Britain know that it intends to bolster the Egyptian government with military and economic aid.

These sources also reported that Britain is upset at the prospect, fearing that U.S. aid will encourage Premier Mohammed Naguib to continue his resistance to British proposals for settling the dispute over control of the Suez Canal.

The British government, it was learned, has strongly urged the American government to hold up any new help for Egypt until present Anglo-Egyptian talks have been concluded on a basis satisfactory to Britain.

The state department, which already has delayed a drafted program for military and economic aid, now has informed Britain that it does not intend to postpone this program for Egypt indefinitely.

Oddity

CINCINNATI (AP) — The American Business Writing Association was told Wednesday the "whiskers and goozle" should be taken out of letter-writing.

L. E. Frailey of Columbus, O., defined "whiskers" as stilted phrases. "Goozle" is a man "who never uses a short word if he can find a longer word of the same meaning," he said.

"Dear Sir," Frailey thinks, is a "cold water beginning to any letter."

"Why not write as you talk and use the man's name?" he continued. "How about 'Good morning, Mr. Jones' or 'Sorry, Mr. Jones' for the first line, followed by 'We could not answer your letter sooner because . . .'"

Judge Delays IWA Probe

VANCOUVER (CP) — Judge A. E. Lord said here Wednesday he does not expect to conduct a probe into the southern Interior woodworkers' dispute for at least a week.

The county court judge, appointed by the provincial government to conduct hearings into disputes affecting B.C. Interior lumber operations will await a decision on his proposals for settlement of the northern district strike.

Results of the vote taken at Prince George may be known New Year's Eve.

T. E. Morrison, district marine agent for the department of transport, yesterday warned mariners that the red spar buoy at the northeast entrance to Deadman's Passage, Clayoquot Sound is reported missing. This will be replaced as soon as possible.

NATO Post For Templer

LONDON (Reuters)—Gen. Sir Gerald Templer, high commissioner in Malaya for the last two years, will take over a key Atlantic post in Europe next October, it was announced Wed-

The 55-year-old general, whose brilliant combat record in Second World War was cut short by a flying piano, will succeed Gen. Sir Richard Gale as commander of the northern army group of Allied forces in central Europe. It was one of two main NATO commands under French Marshal Alphonse Juin, commander of Allied land, sea and air forces in central Europe.

Templer has become one of Britain's top administrative officers since the ironic incident of the flying piano on the Italian front in 1944. An army truck loaded with a grand piano struck a mine directly behind Templer's jeep. The piano landed on his back, crushing his spine.

"After a "miraculous" recovery, he headed Britain's first military government in Germany after the Second World War and played a key role in the post-war reconstruction of the shattered country.

Prime Minister Churchill appointed him high commissioner in Malaya February, 1952.

Templer lost little time in reorganizing the jungle warfare against the Communist terrorists. His predecessor, Sir Henry Gurney, had been ambushed and murdered by the rebels.

"Strong man" methods in the years of Templer's leadership have turned the tide against the rebels. Large areas of Malaya, once infested with the terrorists, have been cleared and freed of military control.

In the last few weeks, however there have been signs of

Perhaps for this reason Templer's term in Malaya, due to expire in February, has been extended until June, the colonial office announced. He will be succeeded then by Sir Donald Macgillivray, his deputy high commissioner.

Upon taking up his new post in Europe, Templer also will serve, as his predecessor did, as commander-in-chief of British forces in Germany.

The bidding:

West opened his singleton spade. East won with the ace and returned the ten—not so much as a suit preference signal (asking partner to return the higher of the two remaining side suits) as because South had false-carded on the first trick, dropping the queen. But although the ten was played for the purpose of forcing dummy's jack, it helped to fool declarer when West returned a low diamond after ruffing the spade. Dummy played low and East won with the queen.

The nine of diamonds was returned to West's ace and East ruffed the third diamond, returning a spade. West was unable to overruff South, but East had to get two more trump tricks anyway, so the contract went down 200 points. "Too bad I found you a singleton heart," said South sympathizing with himself. "And too bad you didn't rescue by bidding two-no-trump."

"But," said North cryptically, "why should I bid two no-trump when the opponents were in one no-trump?"

If we could take back one bad bid from every session of bridge, how many, many points we might save. South's two-heart bid was one of those bad ones. What North meant was that South should have reopened the bidding by doubling the one no-trump bid. If South didn't like North's rescue, he could always bid two hearts and be no higher than he was when he put that bid in immediately. But when he bid instead of doubling, South did two things. He announced a good heart suit, but not a good enough hand to double with. With that kind of hand, North would be most unwise to rescue.

If South had doubled the one no-trump bid, North would have passed. At one no trump North-South would have collected 200 to 500 points. But East said he wouldn't have passed that one no-trump double; he would have rescued to two hearts. South would have enjoyed having East play the hand at two hearts much more than he enjoyed playing it there himself.

Prime Minister's New Year Message Tells of Hopes for Peace, Prosperity

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent said Wednesday the international scene "is not devoid of signs of hope for the fulfillment of that future of peace and prosperity for all mankind that is our continual prayer."

He made the statement in a written New Year's message to

Partial text of the message follows:

Once again it is my privilege to send New Year's greetings to my fellow Canadians, both to those here at home and to those, who, because of the call of duty, find themselves far from their relatives and friends. We think particularly at this time of the members of our armed forces in Korea and in Europe, who, with their comrades of many other free nations, are serving the cause of justice and liberty in the world.

As we look back over the past 12 months, we cannot help but experience a sense of gratitude and a feeling of pride in our country. Canada has continued to grow at a rapid rate. Our known natural resources continued to be developed at a satisfactory rate and at the same time great new discoveries were wealth which is already bringing such benefit to the Canadian people. For the third successive year our farmers have had a truly bounteous harvest. Surely these are reasons for thankfulness and for gratitude.

Last June I was privileged to attend the Coronation of our beloved young sovereign, Queen Elizabeth II. With my fellow Canadians I shared in the admiration of her courage and her devotion to duty as Her Majesty assumed the great responsibilities of high office, and as she dedicated herself to a lifetime of service to her subjects. In the Commonwealth Coronation broadcast I knew I spoke for all Canadians in the expression of loyalty and affection for our new Queen.

The international scene is not devoid of signs of hope for the fulfillment of that future of peace and prosperity for all mankind that is our continual prayer. The United Nations forces, with Canadian troops ranking only third in numerical importance, have halted Communist aggression in Korea. While our men are still there, fighting has ceased. In Europe the members of the North Ating in December, reaffirmed their determination to stand together in defense of our common ideals. In this past month the heads of the governments of Great Britain, the United States and France conferred at Bermuda as the united leaders of the free world.

Metropolitan Government Starting in Toronto Area

TORONTO (CP) — A new form of municipal government, first of its kind in Canada, comes into being Friday in the Toronto area. It will govern one-twelfth of Canada's population.

Officially called the Municipality of Metropolitan Toronto, it will plan and carry out the development of essential services for 1,250,000 persons who live in 240 square miles of one of Canada's fastest-growing areas.

Tens of thousands of new residents and scores of industries have invaded Toronto and its 12 surrounding municipalities since the war. The population, now more than 5,000 a square mile, brought on common problems that the new administration hopes to solve.

The 25-member metropolitan council, as the new government is known, will be responsible in the 13 municipalities for arterial roads, housing, welfare, education, finance, transportation, sewage, water and parks. It will administer these services for more than the combined populations of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick.

Previously each municipality was autonomous. Now each will have representatives on the metropolitan council and will retain its own elected government to look after purely local matters.

Although the council officially comes into being Jan. 1, it has been organizing for the job for nine months.

Heading it is Fred Gardiner, 58-year-old Toronto lawyer who was once elected to public office on a platform wholly opposed to the municipal co-operation on which the new council is based.

"The council expects to spend more than $20,000,000 in 1954," he says. "This will grow to an annual budget of $45,000,000 to $50,000,000.

Plans for the next few years include $24,000,000 to be spent on education, $30,000,000 on sewers and water, and an unestimated amount, probably upwards of $50,000,000, on arterial roads.

Store Heiress Weds Porfirio, Despite Gossip

NEW YORK (AP) — Dime store heiress Barbara Hutton, 41, one of the world's richest women, was married late Wednesday to her fifth husband, Latin Porfirio Rubirosa. She is his fourth wife.

Shortly before the wedding, the bride referred to her vast wealth and, with tears in her eyes, asked of reporters:

"Do you think anyone will give him credit for loving me because I'm myself?"

An unbidden ghost at the simple, 10-minute Park Avenue ceremony was the blond vision of actress Zsa Zsa Gabor. Miss Gabor claimed Tuesday that Rubirosa blacked her eye in a fit of temper when she gave him the gate, but still implored her as late as 24 hours ago to marry him. Zsa Zsa said he offered to ditch Miss Hutton, almost at the altar.

Rubirosa, tall, gallant and 45, denounced Zsa Zsa for picturing him as a rebuffed suitor who landed in Miss Hutton's arms on the rebound.

"It's a publicity stunt," the international playboy said, "a complete lie invented by her publicity agent."

Sighed Miss Hutton:

"I've been crucified these past few days."

Miss Hutton, whose fortune is estimated at some $40,000,000, became a citizen of Rubirosa's native Dominican Republic Tuesday night, as a prelude to their marriage.

It was her second switch of allegiance. She renounced her U.S. citizenship some years ago to become a Danish citizen during her second marriage — to Kurt Haugwitz-Reventlow, the father of her only child, 17-year-old Lance Reventlow.

Adenauer Man of Year

NEW YORK (UP) — The editors of Time magazine announced today the selection of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of the West German republic as 1953's "man of the year."

The editors said Adenauer best filled their "man of the year" description — the man of the woman who "dominated the news of the year and left an indelible mark, for good or ill, on history." They said the chancellor had guided the Germans "back to moral respectability and earned himself a seat in the highest councils of the western powers."

LONDON (Reuters) — Saturday will be a full holiday throughout Russia so workers can have two consecutive free days for New Year's celebrations, Moscow radio said Wednesday. But they will have to make up the time by working Sunday.

Graham Suter To Replace Evan John

OTTAWA (CP)—Graham Suter, 34, of London, Eng., has accepted the post of adjudicator for the Dominion Drama Festival's regional competitions, to fill the vacancy created by the death of Capt. Evan John Simpson, Richard McDonald, festival director, announced Wednesday.

Captain Simpson, playwright and author who wrote under the name of Evan John, was found dead near his farm at Henley, Eng., last Sunday. A rifle was nearby.

Mr. Suter will follow the itinerary set up for the late Captain Simpson, arriving in Ottawa by plane January 3 and adjudicating at the opening festival in Toronto January 11.

Mr. Suter, an experienced actor, director and lecturer, is a member of the British guild of drama adjudicators and has a degree in modern languages from Cardiff University.

Year of Much Activity

THE year-end business and trade reviews for British Columbia have encouraging progress to recite in relation to new undertakings, some of them basic in their nature. The development of water power for industrial uses, new capital, the increasing proportion of B.C. timber that is being turned to domestic manufacture in high-value products, the first fruits of a greatly increased resident population and many other factors recur in the various summaries. Leaving aside the dollar-value of goods and services, the volume of production was impressive and perhaps better balanced than has heretofore been the case.

The closing year was one of pronounced activity in most British Columbia lines of endeavor. An output in excess of five thousand million board feet of lumber in a year of serious market difficulties overseas had probably separate connations. One no doubt marked the degree to which British Columbia operators succeeded in retaining many markets, and in finding new ones. Another factor, however, would seem to have come from the character of the province's expansion in this field: that is, the gradually expanding use of forest products in other ways than for saw timber. Pulp is a notable example. Veneers and plywoods, box factories and many other lines of endeavor all had their share in this. Construction within the province remained high, and even under the concrete and steel formulas of today, building is a lumber-hungry pursuit.

Ranging farther afield, the year saw British Columbia opening its central and northerly areas to a degree perhaps unprecedented. The influx of new capital in impressive volume continued, and on such a basis that the trend is not likely to be soon or suddenly reversed. Commitments were made. For all these and also for many related reasons British Columbia has good cause to be grateful. Work gives a direct result, and always will.

What Now, Mr. Martin?

FEW would wish to quarrel with a government which shows determination to keep within reasonable bounds all operating and administrative expenses over which it has control. In the case of British Columbia's hospitals, however, the Social Credit government's recent edict that expenditures in 1954 must not exceed those of this year caused dismay among those directly responsible for running the institutions in such a way as to provide all the attention that the sick require. These misgivings were most acute in hospitals where negotiations for wage increases were pending. As was pointed out at the time, hospital boards are no better equipped than the managements of other undertakings employing large staffs to buck this tide.

This week the government's policy has been put to its first test in the Okanagan valley, where conciliation proceedings affecting the staffs of four hospitals have been completed. The government-appointed conciliation board has recommended among other items the creation of a pension plan with cost to be shared by the hospitals; a wage increase of five cents an hour for female employees and seven cents for males; a reduction of the working week to 40 hours from the present 44, and a five-day week with two consecutive days off—all these benefits to be granted without reducing "take-home" pay.

Short of lowering the standards and scope of their service to patients, how are the hospitals to meet the cost of higher wages and additional staff for the shorter working week out of a budget which by government decree must not be larger than that of the present year? No matter how few hours and days individual employees may be on duty, hospitals must continue to function around the clock, seven days a week.

It is proper that hospitals, like all other institutions financed from public funds, should be restrained from extravagance and wastefulness; but there is little that they can do unaided to hold down that portion of operating cost made up of salaries, wages and other monetary benefits established by negotiation according to provincial law. If the hold-the-line order is inflexible, as Health Minister Martin has said it is, what practical solution or advice has the government to offer the Okanagan hospitals and others likely to find themselves in a similar predicament before long?

Dreaming the Unnecessary

AN Irishman with a Welsh name who sits for a Scottish constituency in the parliament at Westminster is credited with a dream, to wit: a Commonwealth court to adjudicate on disputes between member countries and to hear appeals from their own supreme courts of justice. One is inclined to believe it will remain a dream. The latter object, insofar as Canada is concerned, would be to resuscitate the equivalent of what has recently been abolished, appeals to the Privy Council; while the former is redundant and of academic interest only.

Nor does the British MP advance very valid argument in support of his idea. As an instance of the kind of dispute that might be arbitrated he cites common roads, bridges and hydro-electric projects, impossibilities in the case of the senior Commonwealth members separated from one another by thousands of sea miles. No boundary arguments will ever trouble them. That the new Central African Federation might haggle with South Africa over power from the Zambesi Falls would be irrelevant cause indeed for co-opting Canada and New Zealand, for example, into some supra-national tribunal.

One cannot conceive a dispute between Canada and, say, Australia or Great Britain itself which could not be settled better than by direct negotiation between the governments concerned. The question of law is not apt to arise, nor would any issue be likely to harden into the state of cold legalistic settlement. The Commonwealth's success rests on good faith and good will, and the creation of a formalized agency to rule on differences of opinion, for that is what in essence they would be, could only disrupt the amity that enables the Commonwealth to function. The ties that bind Commonwealth members are the stronger for being intangible.

CIVIL SERVANTS

Sir,—Mrs. A. Marshall is making an attempt to deny a certain faction of citizens, civil servants, a right enjoyed by every Canadian to stand for any office in federal, provincial or municipal affairs.

The federal statutes allow federal civil servants to allow their names to be put forward for office after a courtesy request from their minister is obtained. To deprive any civil servant of this privilege would be the equivalent of the racial barrier we hear so much about these days across the border. This should never happen here.

DECORATED HOMES

Sir,—Two of us joined the bus tour to see the illuminations. Our reflections thereon follow: For such a crowd there should be at least two loading sites, preferably in different parts of the town, to reduce the time of waiting in the queue, three-quarters of an hour in our case. If the buses made the round trip in opposite directions it might reduce the overcrowding on the roads, for I suspect that many cars follow the buses; possibly the buses did so. The bus drivers should at least announce the winner.

Lighting effects are always pleasing and what we saw had obviously cost much in money and labor, and we should be grateful, yet I venture one criticism. The haphazard mixing of colored lights would be bettered had the colors been massed. The CPR building is an excellent example of what I mean. Here the silhouette is picked out in white while the entrance is in red, the subdued window lighting adds to the effect.

The Legislative Buildings would have gained by the same treatment, but at least they go half way since there are no variegated lights. Flood-lighting for both the Legislative Buildings and the Empress might have been better as both have architectural interest. I notice the award-winning display was mainly flood-lit, so perhaps others will copy.

I suggest that flood-lighting might perhaps be helped out with some white spray on trees, shrubs and lawns, and so might simulate the white Christmas children love, and real dancing flames, if such could be arranged, would, should the night be still, shed a warmer welcome than the chilly deadness of electric light. All people have enough of the child in them to enjoy the camels, reindeer, Santa Claus and other figures, and we heartily thank those who labored to produce them; they always add interest to the scene and help make a picture.

The small but excellent display of soft blue lights tastefully arranged in the sight-seeing bus office at the corner of Government and Belleville Streets is a pattern of what can be done by a thought-out design and is preferable to the more lavish displays at many of the houses. So for one and all I conclude by saying "thank you."

CHOIR OF 300 VOICES

Sir,—Thank you for publishing my letter in Sunday's Colonist. I would like, however, to rectify one mistake. I said the "choir of 150" sang the "Messiah" in Christ Church Cathedral; the singers numbered 300, just double the number I mentioned.

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings"

By TOM TAYLOR

YOU would not, I suppose, having your wits about you, subscribe to a relief fund for "The Unknown Soldier's Widow," since the widow if there is one should be as unknown as he himself.

No one around here, of course, is promoting a fund of that kind but I notice that across the line this is in fact one of the hoaxes that flourish in the name of charity.

Yet, come to think of it, there could be several widows of unknown soldiers, one in every country which has dedicated a memorial of this nature. And any one of them could be in distress and badly in need of a relief fund. Allowing that to be so there would then be the supreme irony of a national hero's wife left to suffer unknown.

And who can say with certainty this might not be the case. No one, since extreme care was taken to keep identities secret.

* * *

In the selection of the British Unknown Warrior, for example, a complex system involving half-a-dozen similar wooden caskets was invoked. And presumably also he might be a Canadian, or an Australian or a South African.

Then too he might have been a bachelor, as might the anonymous soldier buried in state in Arlington.

Many a man, I daresay, and more likely many a woman, has pondered the identity of the unknown Commonwealth warrior who lies in Westminster Abbey. Perhaps with the secret yearning he might be theirs.

I once read an ingenuous story to the effect that the Unknown Warrior was Kitchener, who as you know went down with the Hampshire in the North Sea in 1916. The tale spun was that he was washed ashore wounded and unrecognizable but alive, and that he recovered but without knowledge of who he was. Thereafter military instinct led him to join up as a private and eventually he was sent to France where he was killed and buried without identification. The fantasy was capped by recalling that as a commander in the Near East Kitchener had been heard to hope that his career would be climaxed by a burial in Westminster Abbey.

A fine piece of imaginative fiction, at least.

Not long ago I sat entranced as a playlet on this theme was performed at a veterans' gathering. A spotlight shone on a ghostly figure of the First World War as he gazed down on the troubled world he had left behind and revealed to a newcomer to his realm, a younger man from the Second World War, that he was really the Unknown Warrior. This troubled the younger man, who confided that as a boy his mother told him that each Armistice Day when she went to the Cenotaph ceremony she felt sure the Unknown Warrior was his father. He brightened, however, as he realized his mother would never know the truth and could keep on thinking that the Warrior was hers alone.

This little playlet, a sketch only, was so well acted it illuminated what must be the inner hope of many a widow as she pays annual tribute on Memorial Day.

I trust that the real widow of the Unknown Warrior, should there be one, is not in need of a relief fund, however. That would be a dispensation hardly to be borne.

Reports from Ottawa

IF there weren't another indicator in existence as to the state of the country's economic health, the action of Finance Minister Abbott in chopping off sales of government savings bonds at midnight Tuesday would be enough.

Savings bonds have always been offered for sale from Autumn until August 31 of the following year. Normally sales run about $300,000,000 per issue—although in 1951 and 1952 they approached $400,000,000. This year, under the impetus of a higher interest rate (3¾ per cent) the total shot up to nearly $900,000,000 in three months.

A lot of people sold older issues which yield lower interest rates and used the money to buy 8th Series bonds. But even after allowing for them, sales were much higher than for any issue except the first.

So Abbott hollered "Uncle" and took the series off the market—leaving a definite impression that even after Christmas the people still have far more money than they need merely to pay the landlord and the grocer.

* * *

Nearly all the significant indices wear plus signs, proving that Canada was never more prosperous than in 1953. Moreover, most forecasts predict 1954 likely will rival 1953, if not surpass it.

As the defense spending curve flattened out with little more than minor industrial dislocations, gross national product set a new record of about $24,200,000,000, compared with $23,000,000,000 in 1952.

More people were working (5,400,000 at peak), earning 10 per cent more money, spending 6 per cent more, saving and investing 9 per cent more than in any other year in the country's history.

Capital expenditure was up 9 per cent to a new high of $5,600,000,000. Canada produced more steel, automobiles, oil, homes, TV sets and other consumer goods than ever before.

* * *

One result was a general shift from a seller's market to a buyer's market. Another was price stability. Both government and business hailed them as "healthy developments"—proof that the danger of inflation had ended, and spurs to more efficient production.

Another trend was an almost runaway expansion of consumer credit. It's estimated that nearly a third of the total retail turnover, which ran about 6 per cent higher than in 1952, was financed on credit.

Canada's overall well-being was reflected in Ottawa, with personal income tax rates back at their pre-Korea level, with the government still paying as it goes, and with a modest surplus in prospect for March 31.

The dollar continued to amaze everyone, ending the year at about a 3 per cent premium over U.S. dollars, unintimidated by our trade deficit with the U.S. That deficit had reached the whopping total of $644,000,000 by the end of September, but heavy investment of U.S. capital was helping balance the books.

There were soft spots in textiles, gold mining, electrical appliances, farm implements and merchant shipping, but none as serious as the threat posed by a billion-dollar wheat crop and other farm surpluses. By late fall net farm income had dropped 12 per cent, and it appeared that if grain surpluses could not be sold at good prices in 1954 the whole economy might feel the effect.

Santa's Helpers

(From the New York World-Telegram)

THEY say Europeans are hard to surprise nowadays, especially by anything that comes from America. But we'll bet the latest expedition launched by Harold Stassen's Foreign Operations Administration gives them a start, anyway.

It consists of eight people—husbands and wives—whose assignment, apparently, is to see whether the Europeans like their Christmas presents.

They are to visit Germany, France, Austria, Italy and Spain, between now and Jan. 6, to check on the distribution of American Christmas packages by both private and governmental agencies, and "gauge their effect on the people who receive them."

Naturally, the trip will be at government expense. It will cost about $15,000, including a "consultant's fee" of $25 per day for each of them.

The wives are the president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, a Republican national committeewoman, a regent of the University of Minnesota, and the president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers. Fine citizens all, no doubt, and their husbands too.

But this project recalls an old wartime slogan — "Is this trip necessary?"

If there is anything seriously wrong with the government's distribution of Christmas packages in Europe — and the FOA does not charge there is—it should be investigated by professionals. The government, including congressional committees, has plenty of them on the payroll already.

This $15,000 for Santa's little helpers should have been spent—if it had to be spent at all—on more Christmas presents.

First thing we know, Mr. Stassen will be sending a committee to France to teach the people how to cook.

On the Record

Russia's Own Crisis

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

THERE is some reason to think that the Soviet Union may genuinely want peace. That is its own internal crisis.

The Malenkov government has made an extravagant promise, greeted by a surge of popular enthusiasm. That promise—for the first time in Soviet history—is priority to consumers.

Ever since the first five-year plan, over 25 years ago, every priority has been given to production of capital goods. To make the U.S.S.R. self-sustaining in heavy industry, consumption has been ruthlessly sacrificed. Great achievements in heavy industry have not been reflected in the amenities, or even the necessities, of everyday life. Now, eight years after the war, there is revolt. It does not threaten the Communist political structure as such. It does threaten the leadership. The Malenkov government must make good its promise or risk being supplanted.

* * *

The tendency is reflected in the Soviet press, which has been featuring news of butter imports and pictures of ships unloading Argentine meat. The Soviets are importing fairly large amounts of food and consumers' goods, against manganese, chrome, and crude oil.

The western Communist press also reports that popular interest in a radical expansion of consumption transcends every other issue.

The (Communist) Worker, New York, published recently a report by Ralph Parker on a six-week tour of South Russia. Parker, of course, does not question Soviet capacity to fulfill Malenkov's promises, but he does report that they have created a new atmosphere. (Indicating, incidentally, that there was something wrong with the old one!) "I heard a vast and varied tide of conversation flowing around one subject—the swift expansion of food production and consumers' goods in two or three years. . . . People like to hear that consumption will rise spectacularly in so short a time."

He also reports that customers in stores are rushing for the government's "suggestions and complaints book," and making plenty of both.

* * *

Rare for a Communist reporter, Parker registers a great variety of criticism and adds some of his own. Everything, he thinks, can be cured by administrative changes, but these involve administrators who are being changed continually, even desperately.

Emphasis on imports suggests that Soviet leaders know they cannot fulfill their promises in immediate time from Soviet or satellite sources. The picture seems to show that to effect a "spectacular rise" they need trade with the West.

If this analysis is correct, the diplomatic question is how the West should exploit the situation: will it use it to seek peace, or take advantage of it to intensify the cold war?

Great Britain and France want a sincere try at the former. Our government apparently contemplates the latter. Washington's first reaction to Soviet acceptance of a conference was to see in it not an opportunity to negotiate a settlement but a chance for increased psychological warfare. But psychological warfare can react in various directions. If it convinces the world that America is going into a peace conference for other objects than peace, it will play against us.

* * *

The issue is the most serious that has, as yet, threatened to divide the West—sharpened by Senator McCarthy's demand that we cut off aid to anyone trading with Communist countries. Apparently it does not occur to the senator that American aid has not solved the problems of states that depend on trade for their existence, and themselves face a crisis; that these may decide to come to their own agreements with the U.S.S.R.; and that the U.S.S.R. may be prepared to make astonishing political concessions to obtain such agreements, excluding the U.S.A.

A PADRE IN PRINT

BY REV. WILLIAM HILLS

This business of making New Year's resolutions leaves me stone cold. The more I think about the matter, the more I am inclined to suspect that it is just a nasty, dark, Scottish plot to rob the Englishman of his right to muddle through.

Frankly, I don't believe in New Year's resolutions. It is just plain priggish conceit for any man to advertise that what he resolves mostly not to do on January 1, he will leave undone for the rest of the 364 days.

These resolutions are a social artifice to provide certain people, who make them, with an unaccustomed glow of public and private virtue.

For the sake of their duodenal ulcers, I am happy to report that such folk generally achieve their normal status by sundown and on January 2 are recognizable as the people they have always been.

This is not only an occasion of relief and satisfaction to themselves but also to their friends.

* * *

If friend Tom Taylor will lay aside his claidheamhmor for a moment, I would like to ask this question: What is so very special about the first day of January, anyhow?

Is there something magical in the fact that a division of time is made?

Surely every movement of the hands of the clock does that!

However, to a churchman, January 1 does have some ecclesiastical significance. For one thing, it is the octave of Christmas Day. For another, it is the Feast of Circumcision.

But if you think that I think most people think of these things on New Year's Day, then a good drink—of black coffee—is indicated.

* * *

Most of my Scots friends feel that New Year's Day—like the Stone of Scone—belongs to them.

But they, bless them, are not responsible for it although they do their hospitable best to make this lowly Sassenach praise John Knox for it.

Of course, I may be wrong, but it was never my understanding that Julius Caesar had any Scotch in him, and to this ancient Roman must be given the credit for making January 1 New Year's Day.

When the Julian calendar was adopted by the ancient Roman State, the first day of January became the occasion for a national binge.

The old god, Janus, who guarded the portals of the houses, came into his own. Sacrifices and libations were made to him; gifts and visits were exchanged by the citizens; masquerading and high feasting was general; and, in short, the Eternal City was rocked to its foundations by the goings-on.

Even before Nero set the place afire, there was always a hot time in that old town on New Year's Day.

One of the less pleasant practices, however, was the fact that the emperors demanded from their subjects tribute of a pound of gold. I have no doubt that many Victorians, having in mind a certain 10 per cent tax, will also pay their New Year's Day tribute to another Caesar.

You can't blame the Englishman for being slightly less enthusiastical about January 1 than his northern British cousin for, except for a short time under William the Conqueror, England's new year, in common with the rest of Christendom, began on the 25th day of March.

Although the Gregorian calendar, set up in 1582, restored January 1 to its claim to be the first day of the new year, England did not adopt it until about 200 years later—in 1751 to be exact.

However, these considerations will not prevent me from participating in the social activities of this great holiday. Nor will they diminish the sincerity of the wish: A Happy New Year to all who expose their credulity to this column.

Duke Again Chauffeur for Queen

The Duke of Edinburgh has apparently ripped a page from a scrapbook of his Vancouver Island trip during his tour of New Zealand with Queen Elizabeth II.

The duke took over as chauffeur for the Queen yesterday on a 28-mile road stretch south of Auckland, New Zealand, British United Press reports.

With the Queen beside him the duke drove at speeds of 50 to 60 miles an hour in spots, the reports said.

RECORD SET ON ISLAND

But the duke's unofficial speed record was set in October, 1954, during his and the Queen's (then Princess Elizabeth) visit to Vancouver Island.

On October 23, a Colonist reporter, Eileen Learoyd, followed the Royal Couple who was in a supercharged Oldsmobile convertible, valued at $9,000, at 70 miles an hour and estimated his speed at 80 during a trip from Victoria to the Queen Alexandra Solarium.

Two days later the duke drove from Qualicum Beach to the Albernis at speeds up to 70 miles an hour. The trip was made in 40 minutes and left a police car far behind.

CHANGE FROM OFFICIAL CAR

Yesterday's speedy trip began when the Royal motorcade stopped unexpectedly. The Queen and her husband got out of their closed official car and stepped into an open car.

Where people were congregated to see them, and in towns, the duke slowed to four miles an hour and drove decorously.

At Paerata, 30 miles from Auckland, two men who apparently thought they were modern Sir Walter Raleighs threw their coats on the road in front of the Royal car. It rolled over the coats.

Earlier, as the Queen and duke drove south through Newmarket, an Auckland suburb, the duke noticed a group of people with white canes.

Realizing they were blind persons come to pay homage to royalty and knowing they had to rely on sounds to complete their mental pictures of the scene, the duke leaned out of the car and shouted to them.

Boy Cyclist Seriously Injured

CAMPBELL RIVER—Wayne Smith, 13, suffered a cracked pelvis in a traffic accident here yesterday.

He was reported riding a bicycle and carrying Clifford Sloan, 12, on the top bar, when he swung from behind a truck and collided with a taxi.

Wayne was taken to hospital here. Clifford Sloan was treated for shock and bruises and released.

Equal Pay Up to Women

Although a new law says they must, it's up to British Columbia's working women to see that they get the same pay for doing the same work as a man.

Under the B.C. Social Credit government's new Equal Pay Act, which becomes effective Friday, employers must not discriminate against women by paying them less than the amount paid men for doing the same work in the same establishment.

Color, Beauty, Skating Skill Combine To Make Ice Cycles Outstanding Hit

BY ALEC MERRIMAN

SEATTLE — Victoria can look forward to seeing a different and outstanding ice show when Ice Cycles of 1954 plays at the Memorial Arena 5 to 9 inclusive.

Seattle has enthusiastically welcomed the skating show and well-filled houses have applauded every performance of the three-week engagement.

SKATING EMPHASIZED

This years' show places more emphasis on skating than it has done in former years but the sensational spectacles with "out of this world" costuming and lighting are still a big part of the ice extravaganza.

Brigadoon, the feature production number is even more than expected.

You don't need to be a Scotsman to enjoy this simple fantasy of a Scottish village which disappeared from the face of the earth and by a miracle is brought to life for one day in each century.

The sword dance performed by 30 tartan-clad ice cyclicrs is as spectacular a skating performance as has ever been seen on ice, either in Seattle or Victoria.

COSTUMES AUTHENTIC

All the tartan plaids are authentic and were imported from Scotland, but Scotsmen may be a little critical when they find that it is not always the right clan that wears certain tartans.

Temple of Buddha and Lamps for M'Lady vie for the honors as most spectacularly costumed of the 10 production numbers.

The whole arena is filled with dancing lights reflected from beautiful black lighted dresses in the breathtaking Lamps for M'Lady performance.

TOP ATTRACTION

Diminutive Trixie Larue, who gets $1,500 for each television performance of her juggling act, is without a doubt the top attraction of the 20 starring acts.

What she can't do with a rubber ball just can't be done.

TREAT FOR KIDDIES

Land of Lollipops, with its giant lollipops, candysticks and ice-cream sodas, is sure to be as big a hit with the Victoria children as it was with the kiddies in Seattle.

Star of the show is dainty and demure Ginny Baxter, blue-eyed blonde from Detroit, who captured Olympic Games free-style skating honors and placed third in world championship.

Jimmy Lawrence, who is well known to Victorians, having skated here several times, is the male lead.

Well-Known Ship Carver Dies at 78

TACOMA, Wash. (AP)—Nepean Cameron Garrison, 78, known up and down the Pacific Coast for his extensive collection of hand-built sailing ship models, died Tuesday.

He was born in Halifax, N.S. and at the age of 15 he was master of a fishing schooner. He came to Tacoma 50 years ago.

He took up his hobby of carving ship models in 1929 and since that time had turned out more than 30 models—schooners, barks, barkentines, full-rigged ships, tugs and steamers.

Jail or Sea, Choice for Unfortunate Pole

The Belgians jailed him for another two months.

He went to Norway on the next ship and there deserted for the same reason. His ship was Russia-bound. Norway put him in jail for two months.

For the next two years Mr. Nowalinski worked as an engineer on the Swedish freighter Nordpol. During this time he wrote to "every possible place and country in the world, including the President of the U.S.A. and the Pope in Rome," Mr. Nowalinski says in a letter to Mrs. Rogers.

"But that do not help and nobody wants to help me. I have tried to go off that ship legally in many country but that was impossible."

So when the Nordpol reached Vancouver last June, and with the scuttlebutt saying the ship was bound for Siberia, Mr. Nowalinski did what he was used to. He jumped ship.

A good engineer, he was employed here with the Victoria Tug and Barge Company.

Here he was befriended by Mrs. Rogers who quickly became his "Mom." He was friendly, likeable, and trustworthy.

Then Canadian Immigration stepped in, Mr. Nowalinski was arrested, and placed in a cell in Vancouver until he could be deported. As is usual in such cases, the imprisoned man received no hearing.

Mrs. Rogers tried desperately to get the man out of jail—even if only for Christmas. The immigration department in Ottawa said it would be all right providing there was an adequate bond posted.

A prominent Victoria man immediately offered $50,000 bail. It was turned down on the insistance of the shipping agents of the Nordpol.

"We can't condone his ship desertion," said Mrs. Rogers last night, "But his physical health and mental state are not improving. How is it that the shipping company can dictate to the Immigration department?"

In his last letter Mr. Nowalinski wrote: "If I am here a couple months more I will get TB or something. I can't eat. I can't sleep."

He asked to be transferred to a "real" jail so he could do some work. Since his arrest he says he has not once been taken out into the fresh air.

Some time ago D. N. McDonell, district superintendent of Immigration in Vancouver said the Nordpol was expected to sail from this coast about Christmas time.

But as yet there has been no word of the ship or where she is. And meanwhile Mr. Nowalinski sits in a cell wondering how long it will be before he is allowed to settle in a free nation.

Fire Truck Chassis Arrives

The city received delivery yesterday of a new Kenworth truck chassis with 260-horsepower engine which will be converted by city employees into a fire truck.

The Garbally Road crews built a pumper last year on a Kenworth chassis.

The new machine, a ladder service engine, is expected to be ready in March.

Victoria Drama Group Chosen To Represent B.C. in Festival

Victoria will be represented in the B.C. Regional Drama Festival by St. Luke's Players, it was announced yesterday.

The city drama group will go to Vancouver sometime between February 8 and 13 with its presentation of "High Ground," seeking a spot in the Dominion Drama Festival finals.

It will mark the second appearance of the St. Luke's group in the regionals, and this year it will be the sole Vancouver Island representative.

Word of the selection of St. Luke's came from Jessie Richardson, Vancouver chairman of the Dominion Drama Festival committee, Tuesday.

Adjudication of the play was done by Vancouver director Phoebe Smith on December 19 at St. Luke's Hall.

Because of the large cast and extent of room needed to present "High Ground," Miss Smith saw it played on the floor of the hall instead of the stage.

In order that Victoria may have a look at its entry before the festival in February, the company will stage it at Oak Bay Junior High School on January 15 and 16.

FINGERS CROSSED

St. Luke's members have been keeping their fingers crossed since the December 19 showing of the play, mostly because of the enthusiasm shown by Miss Smith.

"She said Maureen Fitzgerald, who plays the role of the murderess, was the finest actress she had seen in B.C. during her tour of the other companies," play director Flora Nicholson said yesterday.

Jet Bombers Going to Africa

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—About 35 B-47 jet bombers from nearby Lockbourne air force base will fly non-stop to North Africa next month for a 45-day training period, the United States Air Force announced Tuesday. The planes will fly directly to French Morrocco, utilizing air refueling by KC-47 tankers.

BUENOS AIRES (Reuters)—Five persons were killed and 16 injured Tuesday in a collision between a train and a truck loaded with gasoline near Famailla, in Tucuman province. The truck caught fire and the flames spread to the train.

FAO Corn Seed Very Valuable

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—An initial outlay of $40,000 by a United Nations agency added $24,000,000 to the value of [illegible] in 1952. This came to light Wednesday in a year-end report on the activities of the Food and Agriculture Organization. Hybrid maize seed developed by FAO brought about the large increase in the value of the European crop. It was introduced to European farmers in 1947.

Totem Seeks Odd Items

Totem Theatre property man Charles Allen is having a time finding stage furniture for the next production.

"No Exit," a suspense drama by Jean Paul Sarte, calls for only three pieces of furniture on stage to depict, in up to date dress, a scene in Hell.

Required by Mr. Allen are a gold chair, in stuffed Victorian style; a burgundy colored [illegible] and a spinach green divan.

That's all. But try to find 'em, he says.

So if you have any of the three bilious-colored pieces he needs, and will lend them to Totem for a couple of weeks you can call Mr. Allen at B 0411 and he will arrange to have them picked up.

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

Sports-page headlines of the past month have had a familiar ring. And no wonder. They are less than a year old, as a glance back at the last three months of the 1952-53 hockey season was to prove. They mirror the hopes and frustrations of a headline-writing hockey fan:

January 7—"Slumping Cougars nipped by Royals." (Last by four points.)

January 10—"Improved Cougars snap long slump." (Last by three.)

January 16—"Cougars come back at Calgary." (Still four points.)

January 22—"Playoff situation worsens . . ." (Now eight points from playoffs.)

January 24—"Fairburn spark in 5-1 win as Cougars bolster hopes." (Six points from playoffs.)

January 25—"Cougars muff opportunity . . ." (Still six points.)

January 26—"Cougars bolster chances . . ." (Five points.)

February 1—"Cougar hopes brighten as playoff rivals lose." (Five.)

February 4—"Cougars bounced, 7-2, by point-happy Flyers." (Seven points.)

February 7—"Cougars in comeback; hand Royals 6-2 loss." (Seven points out.)

February 8—"Cougar hopes jolted again . . ." (Eight points.)

February 18—"Playoff scramble goes merrily on without Cougars." (Hope lost, 14 points from playoffs.)

February 22—"Cougars boom to 6-2 victory under eyes of Montreal scout." (Kenny Reardon here, 11 points out.)

February 24—"Cougars trim Stamps . . ." (Nine points.)

February 26—"Cougars extend streak . . ." (Five unbeaten games, eight points out, 10 games left.)

February 28—"Cougars retain hopes . . ." (Six points out, nine games left.)

March 1—"Rampaging Cougars keep skein alive." (Seven games unbeaten, five points out, eight to play, hope rampant.)

March 4—"Cougars continue bid . . ." (Streak at eight, four points out, seven games left.)

March 7—"Cougars boost streak . . ." (to nine games, two points out, six to play. Oh, boy.)

March 8—"Cougar streak ends; playoff chance dim." (Four points out, five games left.)

March 14—"Cougars lose ground . . ." (Seven points out, four games to play.)

March 15—"Cougars eliminated by loss to Canucks."

Random Harvest

Unless the unexpected happens, the Cougars are going to have to make their bid with the players they have. They have tried everything to get help but there are just no worthwhile players available . . . Vancouver Canucks certainly got a boost when the New York Rangers let them purchase Ike Hildebrand but this was a deal between clubs who have a working agreement . . . Jim Shirley, one-time Cougar goalie who has been playing for Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., in the Northern Ontario League, broke a bone near his spine recently in an automobile accident involving five other members of his club . . . Percy Norman, well-known Vancouver coach, has been named coach of the Canadian swim team for the British Empire Games . . . Hilda Weiss, Paterson, N.J. bowler, missed the U.S. women's 10-pin record by one point recently when she rolled games of 256, 267 and 234 for a 757 series in league play . . . Thirty fights at Madison Square Garden this year attracted 156,980 fans who paid $633,494. This is a far cry from the 547,136 who paid $2,353,259 to watch 43 fights in 1945, but there wasn't much television then . . . A New York report, denied, of course, has it that Del Webb will eventually sell his half share of the New York Yankees and shift his baseball interests to the Pacific Coast in the belief that major league baseball is inevitable for that area in the near future . . . Art Chapman and Alex Shibicky, of the Vancouver Canucks and New Westminster Royals, respectively, are among the many mentioned as the next coach of the New York Rangers but the job is there for Muzz Patrick whenever he says the word and it wouldn't be surprising if he said it early in the New Year . . . Best hockey race of the season is in the Quebec League. At one time recently, four of the eight clubs had even .500 records and Montreal Royals, with 13 wins and a tie in 27 games, were actually no better than seventh. The six-place club, one game under .500, had a one-point edge with a 14-15 record . . . It should be quite a chore to select the most valuable player in the WHL this season. There's goalie Lorne Worsley at Vancouver, goalie Lucien Dechene, defenseman Pete Durham, and forward Gordie Fashoway at New Westminster, Sid Finney at Calgary, playing-coach Bud Poile at Edmonton, and goalie Marcel Pelletier and forward Wayne Brown at Seattle, to name some of the most outstanding candidates.

Merchants Protect Goalie's Shutout

Rosewall Defeats Seixas To Keep Cup in Australia

BY ERIC RIEL

MELBOURNE, Australia (U.P.) — Australia successfully defended the Davis Cup today as 19-year-old Ken Rosewall returned to form and whipped Vic Seixas of U.S., 6-2, 2-6, 6-3, 6-4, in the all-important deciding match. The team victory was 3-2.

Thus the 19-year-old Aussie tennis stars, Rosewall and teammate Lewis Hoad, kept "down under" the cup that the Americans captured on their home soil one year after Frank Sedgman and Ken McGregor turned professional after the 1952 matches.

And it looks now as though it will be a long time before America can develop anything that will match these 19-year-old youngsters. Never before in history had two such young men won the Davis Cup for their country—and it must be pointed out that these boys haven't even reached the peak of their careers yet.

ROSEWALL GREAT

Rosewall, a disappointment in his first match, which he lost to Tony Trabert (and displaced on the doubles team as a result), was a wizard of the court today as he out-foxed the 30-year-old Seixas. With his steady ground-stroking wizardry, he repeatedly caught the American out of position and wore him down. He broke through Seixas' service twice to win the first set; and then broke through again in the third and fourth.

It was a heart-breaking loss for the U.S. team because the invaders figured this was their best chance for victory in recent years. It was the closest they had come since Sedgman and McGregor first brought the cup back to these shores three years ago.

CALLS UPSET SEIXAS

The Americans went down battling, however. Seixas put up a terrific fight today against the young Rosewall. The American complained of baseline calls four times in the first three sets and when these went against him it apparently upset his game.

He had looked as though he would settle down after winning the second set by powering fast balls past Rosewall. But when a lob that brought up baseline chalk was ruled out of bounds he apparently lost his control.

It was an uphill battle for the Australians. And it was a great victory for the two teen-agers.

The two teams had split the first day's matches when Hoad whipped Seixas and Tony Trabert beat Rosewall. America went in front when Trabert and Seixas teamed to turn back the Australian pair of Hoad and Rex Hartwig. Rosewall had looked so weak against Trabert that it was decided to pull him out of the doubles match. This resulted in a storm of protest against the selection committee . . . after the American tandem won.

HOAD THE STAR

Hoad, easily the star of the matches, evened things the next day when he whipped Trabert—and that set the stage for the Rosewall-Seixas match, which had to be postponed until today due to rain.

And it gave the youngster a chance to redeem himself, which he did with one of the greatest displays of steadiness ever shown by a teen-ager in international tennis.

The final set of the match was a brilliant battle between two great competitors. Seixas again got the had end of a close call on one of his shots along the baseline and by now he appeared to be rattled.

RATTLED BACK

The young Rosewall calmly and ruthlessly pressed in for the kill as he appeared to get all the breaks. He broke through twice to take Seixas' service and then, as the photographers began moving in to take ceremonial pictures—so sure were they of the outcome—Seixas started battling back in the final game.

He had Rosewall down, 15-40, but the Aussie staged a remarkable recovery and brought the game to deuce. Seixas saved another match point—but he was just postponing the inevitable.

The end came when the American netted the final point to close out one of the most thrilling Davis Cup series in history.

U.S. Player Puzzled By Cheers

MELBOURNE (AP) — With tears in his eyes, Tony Trabert told fellow American Ted Schroeder in a radio interview over a Melbourne station Wednesday night that he could not understand why the crowd applauded when he served a double fault in the last game of his Davis Cup singles match with Lewis Hoad.

The radio station was broadcasting to the largest national hookup in Australia.

"Right now I am a disappointed and disillusioned young man," said Trabert. "I am disappointed to know you can go out there in a five-set match like that and when you are behind and double fault, the crowd will applaud and cheer. I don't understand.

Schroeder, former member of the U.S. Davis Cup team, replied: "I disagree with you, boy. I know these people and I don't think a thought like that would enter their minds.

"These Australians were pulling just as hard for you as for Lew."

Last night's scores: Victoria 4, at New Westminster 0; Seattle 2 at Edmonton 9. Next games tomorrow: New Westminster at VICTORIA, Seattle at Vancouver, Saskatoon at Edmonton.

Victoria Cougars, who can't seem to do a thing against New Westminster Royals this season, were tripped again by their one-time "cousins" last night, being roundly outplayed in a 6-3 Western Hockey League setback at the Royal City.

It was the seventh setback in nine games this season against the Royals. The Cougars have won once and tied once and last night's defeat was their seventh in their last eight games. The Royals have won three in that stretch, the Vancouver Canucks two and Seattle Bombers two, and the Cougars' over-all record against their three Coast opponents is 17 lost, seven won and three tied. Against the three Prairie clubs, the Cougars, rather amazingly, boast a 5-2-2 record.

SMALL CROWD

According to the Canadian Press report, last night's game was a listless affair, played before about 1,000 fans, one of the smallest crowds of the season. Only the "spectacular" goaling of Red Almas kept the score within reason.

Victory moved the Royals within three points of the league lead and kept them two points ahead of the pressing Saskatoon Quakers. The Cougars remained in the cellar, three points behind Seattle Bombers and Edmonton Flyers, currently tied for fifth spot.

TWO ROYALS GAIN

Ollie Dorohoy, playing at top form, sparked the Royals last night by scoring twice and passing for a third goal. Gordie Fashoway moved within a point of league scoring leader Enio Sclisizzi by potting his 27th goal and getting an assist to boost his point total to 42. Bobby Love also figured prominently in the attack, moving into third place in the individual scoring race, one point behind Fashoway, by getting a goal and two assists.

Royals took a 2-0 lead in the first period and made it 3-0 at 7:22 of the second. Ross Lowe and Doug Anderson cut the margin to one goal before the period was over, but Fashoway slapped in a rebound and Ollie Dorohoy got his second before Same Lavitt wound it up for the losers. Love scored in an open net in the final minute as the desperate Cougars put on six attackers.

Pelletier Does His Best But Bombers Lose Again

Saskatoon Quakers, with games in hand over every club, moved within five points of the Western Hockey League lead last night as they edged out the Seattle Bombers, 3-2, at Saskatoon.

It was the 11th straight unbeaten game on home ice for the challenging Quakers, who now have won 15, lost three and tied one since they started their climb on November 10. And it was the fourth straight loss for the Bombers.

Once again, it was Seattle goalie Marcel Pelletier who stole the show. In addition to a sparkling game between the pipes, the colorful French-Canadian got the first assist of the season for a goalkeeper when he started the play that led to Seattle's final goal with a pass to Bill Davidson, who sent Joe Bell in for the scoring shot.

Backed by the sensational Pelletier, the Bombers made a valiant effort to salvage at least one point from their third tour of the Prairies, which have been downright unfriendly so far this season. It was the Bombers' seventh straight defeat on Prairie ice and they have only a tie to show for nine games, being outscored 14-39.

Quakers scored through Ray Manson and Vic Howe to take a 2-0 lead into the final period. Wayne Brown sliced the margin when he took advantage of some loose clearing but Doug Adam rubbed salt in the Seattle wounds as he scored what proved to be the winner against his old teammates. Then came Bell's goal and a sensational save by Chuck Rayner in the last seconds which saved a tie game.

Doug Kyle Sets Record

VANCOUVER (CP)—Twenty-one-year-old Doug Kyle, a student at the University of British Columbia, raced to a Canadian six-mile track record on a rain-soaked track here Wednesday.

Officials of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, who timed the UBC meet, said Kyle's time of 31 minutes, 01.4 seconds for the six miles was the fastest run in North America this year.

A senior at UBC who lived in Saskatoon before moving to Vancouver, Kyle eclipsed the mark of 31 minutes, 16.2 seconds set by Selwyn Jones of Hamilton in 1950.

Canucks Boost Hopes; Obtain Ike Hildebrand

Vancouver Canucks gave their Western Hockey League championship hopes quite a boost yesterday with the announcement they had purchased winger Ike Hildebrand from the New York Rangers.

Owner Coley Hall stated he had paid $7,500 for the contract of the 26-year-old lacrosse and hockey star and that he hopes that Hildebrand will arrive in Vancouver in time to play in the New Year's Day game against Seattle Bombers.

Sale of Hildebrand, who was once a New Westminster lacrosse star and this year a member of the Mann Cup winners, Peterborough Trailermen, although he was unable to make the trip west for the final, was a surprise. The chunky little rightwinger appeared to have made his place with the Rangers and was the club's sixth highest point-getter only a week ago with a record of six goals and 10 assists.

Hildebrand led the American Hockey League in goals scored last season with 38 and added 34 assists for 72 points in the 64 games he played for Cleveland Barons. He scored 31 goals the previous season in 48 games for the same club and in 1950-51 season, led the U.S. Hockey League with 42 goals for Kansas City. He had 49 assists that season for 91 points, best of his career. Before going to Kansas City, he played two seasons with Los Angeles in the PCHL scoring 17 and 24 goals and 36 and 60 points.

One other player switch was announced yesterday in the WHL. Edmonton Flyers sending Buddy Boone to Sherbrooke "so that he can play more regularly." Boone, who managed 39 points in his pro debut with St. Louis of the AHL last season, couldn't get started this season in the WHL. He left the Flyers with three goals and five assists to show for his 28 games.

Clippers Keep Duggan; Helps Defeat Sailors

Wednesday night scores: Merchants 4, V's 0; Nanaimo 5, Navy 2.
Next game, Saturday: Victoria V's at Nanaimo, 8 p.m.

By IAN GLENDAY

Victoria Commercial Hockey League fans who wanted to see just how Nanaimo's league-leading Clippers would fare without the services of their high-scoring winger, Arnie Duggan, failed to have that question answered at Memorial Arena last night.

Duggan, who was offered a three-game trial with Kelowna Packers of the Okanagan Senior Hockey League and reportedly eager to jump into faster company, apparently changed his mind about reporting to the Interior team. And the blond forward played his usual solid game, scoring a goal and adding an assist as Clippers drubbed Navy, 5-2, before about 1,500 fans to maintain a strong grip on first place.

SECOND SHUTOUT

In the opener, defending champion Merchants won their second straight game and made it four victories in five games as they gave goalie George Hall his second shutout of the season with a 4-0 decision over Victoria V's.

Coming back from a poor opening period, when they were rather fortunate to hold the sailors to a 1-1 deadlock, Clippers fired four unanswered second-period goals, two of them coming when Navy's Archie McLean was serving a tripping penalty. Then they held off a determined Navy bid in the final period which resulted in one goal.

Always opportunists, the Clippers were outplayed in the lightning-fast and hard-hitting first period and only some luck around their goal and some sparkling blocking by youthful Walt Davis, who was replacing Don Medley, kept the Navy total down. The sailors, who always look good in early going, faded badly in the second period but came on strong again in the final frame.

Starring with Duggan were his line-mates, playing-coach Eddie Shamlock and slender Joe Zubach. Shamlock scored their third goal and assisted on three more while Zubach picked up two goals and an assist.

MISS CHANCES

In the opener, V's held a good part of the play but lacked finish and Hall, who was making his first start in more than a month, was always good and was backed by a steady display by his defense.

The losers were still minus playing-coach Fergie McPherson and were without youthful Don Plensky, who started out the season with Nanaimo before joining V's. Plensky was in strip for Clippers last night although Irving said that he had not been given his release from the V's.

Ron Bremner sparked the winners with two goals in the second period while Rudy Pischo and Ab Wiebe scored third-period markers. Wiebe's effort was by far the best, the defenseman taking a quick relay from Bernie Strongman and slapping the puck into the net from the side.

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal. — Bowl week opens with all guns firing on many fronts. Although we are quite a distance from Florida, New Orleans and Dallas, active agents are keeping us up to date from the various camps.

Word comes from Miami that Oklahoma backers still insist Bud Wilkinson's squad has more all-round team speed than Maryland has. Also, that much depends on the playing condition of Maryland's star passing quarterback, Bernie Faloney. If he isn't right for most of the route, Jim Tatum has only an outside chance in the Orange Bowl Friday.

Fred Digby, from the Sugar Bowl dugout, announces that, of West Virginia's 42 players, 23 are from the home state, and 10 from right across the border. No far-range scouting for this squad, which is a wholesome situation.

"Somebody," writes Digby, "wrote that West Virginia was white meat for Georgia Tech."

"There's no white meat in West Virginia," coach Art Lewis countered. "All West Virginia meat is deer, bear and wild turkey, all dark and reasonably tough."

Digby is also impressed with the power, speed and size of the West Virginians.

Jacksonville is much excited about the 'Gator Bowl, where Auburn faces Texas Tech.

Here are two teams of better-than-average strength, evenly matched, which is all any bowl department can ask for. This is certain to be a close, exciting game for both have the needed backfield and line manpower, which is a considerable part of football.

* * *

Looking over the five bowls listed, headed by the 100,000-attendance Rose Bowl session, we find nearly every game practically an even choice.

This is true of Michigan State and U.C.L.A., close to an even-break affair. U.C.L.A. has Paul Cameron to offer against a slightly better spartan backfield. The Uclans have a slightly stronger line. Both Red Sanders and Biggie Munn are past masters at getting their squads ready.

The same measure is true in lining up Maryland and Oklahoma, Alabama and Rice, Georgia Tech and West Virginia, Auburn and Texas Tech.

These are 10 good, sound teams. West Virginia is the only experiment, as eastern teams have shone none too radiantly in their bowl affairs. But the mountaineers can be a surprise against a Georgia Tech team not as strong as the 1952 delegation. This West Virginia outfit is the biggest team that has played in the Sugar Bowl since Frank Leahy's 1940 Boston College team, which beat Tennessee. The mountaineers have speed.

It may be that I've seen two harder workers than Red Sanders and Biggie Munn, but I can't recall where or when. This is the first Rose Bowl shot for each. Munn has almost completely dominated the big ten and Notre Dame for four or five years, and Sanders has moved into the front rank of the Pacific slope in the last two years.

Tide Coaches Change Line-Up for Norwests

Victoria Crimson Tide officials, who just about lost all hope of returning the McKechnie Cup to Victoria after a long absence when The Tide dropped a 3-0 decision to Vancouver Reps last Saturday, will make two line-up changes, one of them enforced, against Norwests here Saturday.

Coaches Dick Ellis and John Poole announced yesterday that several players were nursing minor hurts but that only hook Ed Bourke, who received an injured neck Saturday, would not be in strip. Bourke will be replaced by Norm Dixon of Oak Bay Wanderers while Ted Martin will make his first start for Victoria this season in the scrum. Replacing [illegible] Olson, who has been dropped to a spare.

LAST FOR TIDE

Saturday's inter-city rugby match at Macdonald Park at 2:30 p.m. closes out Victoria's schedule in the annual series and a victory would give the Tide two wins in three starts and clinch at least a tie for second place.

Victoria also received good news when it learned that Colin Blythe, who missed Saturday's crucial match because of the flu, has recovered and will drop back to second row in the scrum. The backfield will remain intact although wing three-quarter Gary Pynn and centre Bob Abbott each injured a leg Saturday. Dave Whittingham will start at fullback with Derek Hyde-Lay the other centre and Dave McKenzie on the wing.

STRONG TEAM

Norwests, who dropped an 11-6 decision to Vancouver after holding a 6-3 edge at half-time, will strip a powerful team, featured by a heavy, aggressive scrum. Fullback will be Dave Block; Gordon Hemmingway and Keith Myles will be the wing three-quarters; Bill Kinder and John Renfrew are listed as centres; Harry Winter is the five-eighths and scrum-half is Norm Blake.

Forwards are Bill Turner, Alex Mahood, Joe Lidster, Ossie Gjerdalin, Ian Strachan, Peter McQueen, Al Sinclair, Brian Mitchell. Spares will be Rick Smith, Buck Ellison and Fred Boyd.

Time Marches On

Shown in his younger days is Oscar "Battling" Nelson, 71, former lightweight boxing champion who was admitted to a psychopathic hospital in Chicoga Tuesday with a complete loss of memory suffered after his wife died Saturday. Nelson earned an estimated $300,000 in a 22-year fight career that spanned the turn of the century.

Percy Norman Will Coach Games Team

VANCOUVER (CP)—Veteran coach Percy Norman of the Vancouver Amateur Swimming Club has been chosen coach of Canada's swimming team for the 1954 British Empire Games here.

A nation-wide poll of Canadian Amateur Swimming Association officials selected Norman, R. H. Kirkpatrick of the B.C. branch of the CASA said in making the announcement.

Norman was coach of Canada's swim team at the 1936 Olympics in Berlin.

Chosen to assist Norman at the games next summer were Roy Ashworth of Montreal, past president of the CASA, who will be team manager, and Mrs. Edna K. Worth, of Toronto, who will be chaperone.

Remember When:

George Vezina—the "Chicoutimi Cucumber" who became one of hockey's greatest goalies — played his first game for Montreal Canadiens 43 years ago today. Vezina, in the Canadien nets for 15 years, was playing one period at Montreal against Pittsburgh in November, 1925, when he was forced out by illness. He died at Chicoutimi in 1926.

Golf---
Here's How

BY SAM SNEAD

Probably more high handicap golfers gum up shots from a sand trap than any other shot in the course. Accustomed to play from the fairway grass the unusual conditions the player faces in a sand trap cause him to swing with a hope and a prayer rather than with a definite idea of swinging that club smoothly down, taking the sand a little back of the ball and following through in a complete finish. It's the mental hazard that makes this shot difficult. It is not the shot itself. Rarely will you see a Class A player experience difficulty in putting the ball close to the hole from a sand trap. The Class A player knows what he's going to do and he simply does it. He knows that the club face is lofted to lift the ball up and it will do so if he just swings as confidently and accurately as he does for any shot on the fairway. The most important point to remember is to swing on through. Never quit in the sand.

Wednesday night's score: Montreal 3 at Toronto 2.
Next game, tonight: Montreal at Detroit.

TORONTO (CP) — A pair of goals in the final period Wednesday night gave Toronto Maple Leafs a 2-2 tie with Montreal Canadiens in a lightning-fast National Hockey League game played before 13,831 fans.

Canadiens, now one point behind the leading Detroit Red Wings, lost Bernie "Boom Boom" Geoffrion, suspended last week for eight New York games as a result of a stick swinging incident in New York. Geoffrion suffered a charley horse when checked by Ron Stewart. He will undergo X-rays today.

McNEIL HURT

Montreal-goalie Gerry McNeil was struck in the left cheek by a sizzling shot by Armstrong. The game was delayed 10 minutes while he received medical treatment.

The game was only 21 seconds old when Ken Mosdell took a pass from Tom Johnson, raced through the Toronto defense and beat Harry Lumley.

Jean Beliveau, Montreal's high-priced rookie, scored his third goal of the season at 16.51 of the second period when he snapped in a pass from Eddie Mazur.

Armstrong gave the Leafs their opening goal at 1.16 of the final frame when, with Beliveau off, he teamed up with Tod Sloan and Jim Thomson to beat McNeil. Morrison scored at 6.46 at the end of a passing play with Gordie Hannigan and Fern Flaman from 30 feet out.

The tie left Toronto in third place.

Line-ups:

Montreal—Goal: McNeil; defense: Bouchard, Johnson, Harvey, St. Laurent; forwards, Mosdell, Richard, Olmstead, Curry, Gamble, Beliveau, MacKay, Masnick, Mazur, Geoffrion.

Toronto—Goal: Lumley; defense, Horton, Flaman, Morrison, Thomson, Bolton; forwards, Sloan, Watson, Armstrong, Migay, Hannigan, Nesterenko, Bolinger, Bailey.

Referee, Red Storey; linesmen, Jim Primeau and Red Dunn.

TORONTO (CP)—The stock market showed an upward trend as [illegible] session gaining spell.

Banks, papers, constructions, utilities, steels, liquors and manufactures led industrials higher. Foods were down.

Seniors and holding companies were weaker to drag golds lower despite a slight junior rise.

Uraniums were up with a wide majority of small gains over losses.

Base metals made the largest gain with nearly all seniors trading for small gains. Juniors were up with penny changes.

Western oils were strong with Great Plains' 75-cent gain the leader. Merrill and Canadian Collieries were strong. Losses were few and small.

Survival of All on Plane Amazing

Amazed that anyone escaped alive, air force officers and ground crew examine wreckage of plane that flipped over on back at Vancouver airport. All 51 persons aboard are alive and only one suffered severe injuries.

Victorians, Flying Officer and Mrs. Frank Player, were among passengers on crippled RCAF North Star which crashed at Vancouver airport yesterday.

Escapes in Crash Considered Miracle

VANCOUVER (CP)—A disabled RCAF North Star transport plane ripped off a wing and cartwheeled into tangled wreckage while landing at Vancouver International Airport yesterday, but all 51 persons aboard escaped serious injury.

Air force officials said it was a "miracle" no one was killed. Cause of the crash was not known.

The 43 passengers and eight crew members scrambled through broken windows and a gaping hole in the fuselage. Eight women and two small children were among the survivors.

The four-engined plane from 426 Transport Squadron at Dorval, Que., was on a regular flight from Vancouver to Montreal via Edmonton when it was forced to turn back after it ran into icing conditions and one engine failed.

Most of the passengers were returning to Eastern Canada after spending Christmas on the Coast.

The pilot, Flt. Lieut. John Evans of New Westminster, B.C., and Dorval, was pulled out of a hole in the nose by one of the airport crash teams. He suffered a cut head.

Most seriously injured was Airwoman Pat McHugh of Hamilton, Ont. She suffered abrasions and shock but was reported in good condition.

The plane came to rest upside down at the edge of a 10-foot ditch partly filled with water. The passengers and crew were strapped to their seats by safety belts and were hanging upside down when the fuselage slid to a stop in a pool of gasoline.

Flames which shot out from a sheared-off engine were doused by firemen before they could spread.

It was the second crash of an RCAF North Star in the last three days. A North Star en route from Japan to McChord Field, Wash., crashed Sunday while landing at Shemya in the Aleutians. The eight persons aboard were unhurt.

In yesterday's crash, the fear of fire sent the passengers scurrying from the wreckage.

"The passengers seemed to know the danger," a rescuer said. "Even the ones who were badly shaken up were scrambling away from the smouldering wreck that could have gone off any minute like a truck load of TNT."

It was the first major crash in the 24 years the $1,000,000 airport has been in operation.

Wing Cmdr. G. J. J. Edwards of 435 transport squadron in Edmonton is en route here to take charge of the official investigation.

Wing Cmdr. Donald Macdonald, commander of the RCAF Sea Island station, said preliminary investigation indicated the plane's undercarriage buckled as the wheels hit the runway, causing it to flip.

Aussies Win Cup

MELBOURNE—Australia today won the Davis Cup for the fourth consecutive year when 19-year-old Ken Rosewall defeated veteran Vic Seixas of the United States.

(Full details can be found in the sports section on Page 8.)

Reds Making All-Out Bid For Victory

HANOI, Indo-China (AP)—The armies of Moscow-trained Ho Chi Minh—equipped and advised by Red China—are apparently determined to make 1954 a "year of decision" in the Indo-China war.

There are strong indications that Ho Chi Minh is going to risk everything in an all-out attempt to strike a crushing blow at the French Union forces or at least make the situation look so bad that he might gain a negotiated peace.

The French expect hard months of fighting ahead. Army sources said Ho Chi Minh is virtually forced to make his supreme bid for victory or a negotiated peace in the next few months because the balance of power is steadily being turned against him.

He still is credited with having eight first-line divisions and a total of 200,000 regular troops.

This outnumbers the French Union forces, but the rising Viet Namese army is tipping the scales. The Viet Namese had 200,000 men under arms at the end of December and say this will be boosted to 350,000 within another year.

The rebels yesterday attacked French strong points in northern Laos and closed in on the fortress of Dien Bien Phu, farther north in neighboring Viet Nam.

City Couple Safe in Crash

Among those who escaped death when the RCAF North Star transport crashed at Vancouver airport yesterday was a young Victoria couple.

Flying Officer Frank Player and his bride of December 5, the former Miss Sylvia Welsh, were returning to North Bay, Ontario, where FO Player is stationed.

During his leave in Victoria FO Player stayed with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Player, 2604 Blackwood.

Frank attended St. Louis College and was in the B.C. Hospital Insurance Commission before he joined the air force two years ago.

Fire Fighters Make Gains

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Fire-fighting specialists began to get the upper hand Wednesday on a forest fire which at times has threatened the famed Mt. Wilson observatory near here.

Richard Johnson, a U.S. forest service fire prevention officer, said the blaze may be controled by Friday.

Neither the observatory nor the $4,000,000 worth of television equipment atop Mt. Wilson has been damaged.

Philip Attends Funeral

HAMILTON, N.Z. (Reuters)—Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh parted company today for the first time since their Royal tour began, when the Duke flew to attend services in Wellington for victims of New Zealand's disastrous Christmas Eve train wreck.

He and Prime Minister Sidney Holland left nearby Rukuhuia airport soon after dawn in a Royal New Zealand Air Force C-47. Services are being held in Wellington for the 136 persons now believed to have died in the Tangiwai rail disaster. The duke will return this afternoon.

Elizabeth will carry on the day's program alone, with a civic reception and a visit to New Zealand's famous Waitomo caves, where swarms of glow-worms brighten subterranean blackness.

She and her husband have been together constantly since their Commonwealth tour began at the start of this month.

A formal dinner and the cheers of thousands of celebrating New Zealand youngsters greeted the Royal couple on their arrival here Wednesday night.

Resplendent in a blue satin evening dress with sparkling diamond circlet, bracelets, earrings and necklace, the Queen joined more than 80 guests at a dinner given by Mayor R. Braithwaite of Hamilton.

She and the Duke then visited the Bledisloe building, one of the country's largest structures, and waved from a balcony to 4,000 cheering participants in a youth festival.

Island Flier, Student Killed

MOOSE JAW (BUP)—An experienced flier and his student died in the flames of their crashed plane in a farmer's field 20 miles south of here Wednesday.

FO Charles Bryers, Port Alberni, and LAC Francis Fozer, Newcastle, New Brunswick, died almost instantly when their Harvard plummeted to the ground.

Three Charged with Taking $450 from Store Owner

CAMPBELL RIVER — Two men and a juvenile have been arrested by Royal Canadian Mounted Police here in connection with a $450 robbery of a storekeeper at gun-point.

William Mould, Fred Stickland and a 17-year-old boy, all of Campbell River district, were arrested after an air and sea search by RCMP.

The $450 was recovered for Garnet Bergman, who lives in his store at Shoal Bay, 30 miles north of here.

Police said three men knocked at Bergman's door at 2 a.m. Wednesday seeking help to repair their boat. As the storekeeper opened the door the shotgun was aimed at him and the $430 stolen from the store.

The three men fled to a waiting speedboat and escaped.

Mr. Bergman was unable to notify police until 8.30 a.m. yesterday, when B.C. Airlines radio-telephone facilities opened at Campbell River spit. Airlines employees relayed the report to police.

A police officer flew immediately to Shoal Bay to investigate. The speedboat was not seen in later air patrols.

Police learned finally that the trio had gone to Heriot Bay, Quadra Island, and that Mould and the juvenile had taken a taxi five miles to Quathiaska Cove and boarded a ferry for Campbell River.

The two were arrested as they landed here. Stickland was arrested at Heriot Bay.

Christmas Food, Mail Left Here

Princess of Alberni Laid Up at Victoria, Freighter Island King To Make Next Trip

But up on the West Coast they have another name for the Maquinna's successor, the Princess of Alberni, and it's quite unprintable.

Down on the CPR docks at Victoria this week are lying the goodies that were going to make Christmas cheer for the good people of Zeballos, Cloose, Chamiss Bay and Kyuquot.

Vegetables, fruits and other perishables are rotting.

They are lying at Victoria because the Princess of Alberni failed to complete the Christmas trip she started on December 22 from Victoria.

Aboard the Princess were 250 bags of Christmas mail in addition to the holiday-season freight. If the run had proceeded according to schedule everything would have been delivered in time for Christmas Day.

Instead, what happened?

The Princess struck a dead head somewhere in the Alberni Canal, damaged a propeller shaft and got no further than Tahsis, 15 miles short of Zeballos and farther from other more northerly points of call.

At Tahsis, the Princess put ashore its 40 bags of mail for Zeballos, Ceepeecee, Chamiss Bay and Kyuquot. Then, still with her freight aboard, the Princess set off for home under tow.

Meanwhile, Christmas Day came and went for the people of Zeballos, Ceepeecee, Chamiss Bay and Kyuquot with no Christmas supplies.

A small boat was eventually sent down from Zeballos to Tahsis to collect the mail (which arrived December 28 instead of 24).

The same state of affairs exists at Chamiss Bay and Kyuquot.

Indignant Westcoasters want to know why the Princess of Alberni was not towed in to complete its inner passage run when it got as far as Tahsis? And even if towing was not regarded as practicable why was the freight not unloaded at Tahsis instead of being brought back to Victoria?

With the Princess of Alberni lacking refrigerated space, the perishables were in a sad state when they returned to Victoria this week. Wednesday they were still to be seen lying on the CPR dock.

Port Renfrew, nearest to Victoria of the Princess' ports of call, has been passed up entirely on the past two trips—unfavorable weather. Cloose has also been by-passed on the two December trips. Each time the freight for these ports has been brought back to Victoria.

Cloose has had neither mail nor supplies for more than three weeks.

Port Renfrew would have been in the same position had shippers not made arrangements with the logging company to have the goods sent in by company speeder over the Shawnigan Lake route.

The white Princess is becoming a white elephant for the CPR. Shippers estimate that their claims for damaged and undelivered freight have increased 1,000 per cent since the Maquinna was taken off the route.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canadian Pacific Steamships' coastal freighter Princess of Alberni will miss her regular scheduled trip Friday because she is laid up for repairs, the company announced Wednesday.

Island King, a coastal freighter, will make the Alberni's regular run from Vancouver to Galiano, Mayne, Hope Bay, Saturna Island, South Pender Island, Victoria and northern points.

The CPS vessel is expected to make the next scheduled run January 12.

Prison Or Sea Choice

BY PETER BRUTON

Still confined after five months in a small cell atop the Immigration Department building in Vancouver is a 29-year-old former Polish national who has spent the past four years either at sea or in jail—the two places he hates most.

For his "crime" of escaping from behind the Iron Curtain, Richard Nowalinski has been imprisoned for more than a year in the jails of five of the free, western nations.

Before that he was imprisoned by both the Polish and Russian Communists.

A volunteer Victoria immigration worker, Mrs. William Rogers, 42 South Turner, late last month brought the matter of Mr. Nowalinski's plight to the attention of Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, Conservative MP for Esquimalt-Saanich.

Both worked incessantly in a vain attempt to get the man out of the cell for Christmas but Immigration authorities flatly turned down the request.

Mr. Nowalinski has to remain in the Immigration department cell until a ship arrives in which he can be deported. And no captain will accept the man because he has no passport.

It all started in 1949 when Mr. Nowalinski was jailed by Russian and Polish Communists.

Afterwards he escaped from Red-controlled Poland and arrived in Sweden on a Swedish ship. There he was jailed for two weeks and was then signed on a Swedish ship. That was his home for the next seven months.

The ship eventually arrived in Egypt and there Mr. Nowalinski learned the next port was one in Russia. He jumped ship and was jailed by the Egyptians for three months. They signed him on a Belgian freighter.

This ship took him to Belgium where he once again deserted—the vessel was bound for Poland.

Eyes Bigger Than Stomach

More than just food for thought, thinks 16-year-old John Kelly as the enormity of his culinary boast begins to dawn. Only a quarter of the way through the four pies, six doughnuts, eight date squares and 16 tarts he bet friends he could eat in an hour, John begins to get, like Pogo's friend Albert, "a sickly green color all over hisself." He didn't make it.
